
VOID WALKER
SEASON 2
INFINITE DESTRUCTION

VOID WALKER — SEASON 2

CHAPTER 1: “THE ETERNAL SYMBOL AWAKENS”

After reality acknowledged Harris beside the Void Throne Gate, silence consumed the dimensional region while distorted winds surrounded exhausted survivors.

The enormous Void Monster guarding the throne slowly emerged from darkness, shaking fractured terrain while everyone immediately prepared themselves for battle again.

Koji instantly understood the creature was not protecting territory alone, but guarding the destiny connected directly toward the Void Walker prophecy.

Jekuna rushed forward aggressively first, attacking fearlessly despite exhaustion, while Roku and Reku supported him using unstable energy weapon combinations.

The monster destroyed their coordinated attacks effortlessly, sending devastating shockwaves across the battlefield while dimensional cracks spread beneath everyone’s feet violently.

Harris joined the battle despite severe injuries, forcing himself forward repeatedly because retreating meant allowing death to reach every surviving companion nearby.

Harlina screamed angrily toward Harris, begging him to stop fighting recklessly because his body already looked moments away from completely collapsing permanently.

Hours passed during continuous battle while everyone slowly weakened physically, emotionally, and mentally under overwhelming pressure generated directly from the ancient guardian monster.

Harlina’s friends remained behind protective barriers, assisting injured fighters carefully while Koji searched desperately for weaknesses hidden within the creature’s movements patterns.

Suddenly the monster broke through defensive formations violently, charging directly toward Harlina and her terrified friends with overwhelming killing intent surrounding everything nearby.

Everyone tried moving immediately, but their exhausted bodies refused responding properly after suffering countless injuries throughout the terrifying dimensional battle already unfolding endlessly.

Harris saw Harlina frozen before death approaching rapidly, and without hesitation forced his destroyed body directly between her and the monster immediately.

Blood covered Harris completely while his breathing weakened dangerously, yet he continued standing purely through emotional determination stronger than physical limitations remaining anymore.

The monster’s enormous claws stopped inches before Harris suddenly, while strange crimson energy began spreading slowly across his damaged chest silently afterward.

Everyone stared in complete shock as the Eternal Symbol appeared glowing brightly across Harris's chest, radiating terrifying cosmic pressure throughout surrounding dimensional space instantly.

Harris himself could barely understand the overwhelming power flooding through his body, yet emotionally realized the symbol responded directly toward his protective desire.

Memories flashed through Harris's mind rapidly, showing destruction caused by previous Crimson Eclipses consuming civilizations, worlds, and entire cosmic systems endlessly across history.

At that moment Harris understood clearly that his existence carried responsibility beyond survival alone, because countless lives depended upon his future choices completely now.

Harris slowly raised his head toward the guardian monster and declared calmly, "I will save this cosmos from the Crimson Eclipse forever."

The terrifying Void Monster immediately kneeled respectfully before Harris after hearing those words, shocking everyone witnessing the impossible event before their exhausted eyes silently.

Harlina trembled emotionally while staring toward Harris because the boy she loved suddenly looked like something far beyond ordinary human existence completely now.

Koji whispered quietly that the prophecy was real, while Lunar realized the Eternal Symbol confirmed Harris truly existed as the legendary Void Walker.

The guardian monster then turned silently toward the enormous gate and activated ancient mechanisms hidden beyond dimensional reality through unknown cosmic authority completely afterward.

The Void Throne Gate slowly opened at last, revealing endless darkness surrounding a mysterious throne where a crown floated beneath collapsing crimson stars silently.

Everyone felt overwhelming pressure merely observing the throne because the dimensional energy surrounding it exceeded human understanding completely beyond scientific explanation or logic entirely.

As Harris stepped closer toward the throne, the Eternal Symbol suddenly disappeared from his chest while his body collapsed painfully onto broken dimensional ground afterward.

Harlina immediately caught Harris before impact, crying emotionally because his life force weakened drastically after using the Eternal Symbol only briefly during battle moments.

Lunar quickly examined Harris carefully and realized terrifying information hidden within the newly formed manuscript pages appearing automatically beside the throne silently afterward nearby.

The pages explained the Void Walker could not sustain Eternal Symbol activation long currently because Harris lacked proper emotional synchronization and dimensional control entirely.

Another page revealed the Crimson Eclipse would arrive within five years exactly, giving humanity limited remaining time before cosmic destruction consumed existence completely forever afterward.

Koji immediately understood Harris required intense training before the Eclipse arrived, otherwise uncontrolled Void Walker power might destroy reality accidentally instead of protecting existence.

Harris slowly awakened afterward and apologized quietly for hiding his strange experiences previously because he feared losing everyone emotionally important beside him forever someday.

Instead of fear alone, tears filled everyone's eyes because their closest friend carried the impossible burden capable of saving the entire cosmos from destruction alone.

Yet despite emotional support, fear slowly spread afterward among survivors because the Eternal Symbol transformed Harris into something humanity could barely understand emotionally anymore.

Whispers about Harris began spreading across regions rapidly, causing ordinary people fearing the Void Walker while others worshipped him as cosmic salvation itself already.

Because of growing fear surrounding himself, Harris isolated emotionally again and began training alone constantly without caring about injuries, exhaustion, or personal health anymore afterward.

Every night Harris sat before the throne studying ancient scripts carefully, trying understanding how previous Void Walkers controlled overwhelming Eternal Symbol power completely throughout history before.

Although Harris isolated himself emotionally, Harlina, Roku, Reku, Jekuna, Koji, and Lunar continued supporting him despite growing dangers surrounding future cosmic events approaching rapidly now.

Standing alone before the Void Throne eventually, Harris clenched his fists silently and whispered toward the endless darkness surrounding existence beyond dimensional reality completely:

"I don't care what happens to me anymore… as long as this cosmos survives."

TO BE CONTINUED IN CHAPTER 2

By Harris Ravi

VOID WALKER — SEASON 2

CHAPTER 2: "THE ONES WHO FEAR THE VOID WALKER"

A few days after the Eternal Symbol awakened before the Void Throne, information about Harris spread rapidly across countless cosmic civilization territories afterward.

Some people worshipped Harris as divine salvation chosen to stop the Crimson Eclipse, while others feared him as existence's future destruction completely afterward.

Across cities, dimensional colonies, and hidden organizations, people debated endlessly whether the Void Walker represented hope itself or unavoidable cosmic catastrophe approaching rapidly.

Meanwhile Harris ignored growing attention completely and continued training beside the Void Throne daily, forcing himself beyond physical limitations despite unresolved injuries remaining afterward constantly.

Although Harris appeared emotionally calm externally, internally he carried overwhelming pressure knowing the survival of existence depended directly upon his future growth completely afterward.

One evening while training alone beside the throne, Harris suddenly sensed unfamiliar presence nearby watching him silently from dimensional darkness surrounding the throne chamber afterward carefully.

Harris stopped moving immediately afterward and whispered quietly, "Who's there?" while strange uneasiness spread across his instincts rapidly without explanation suddenly nearby afterward completely.

Before Harris could react further, unbearable pain exploded suddenly through his chest, arms, and legs while dimensional bullets pierced directly through his exhausted body afterward violently.

Blood spread across the throne chamber floor instantly while Harris collapsed painfully, unable understanding who attacked him or how they bypassed dimensional protection systems afterward completely.

The mysterious attacker watched silently from darkness briefly before disappearing entirely, leaving Harris unconscious beside the Void Throne under fading crimson dimensional light afterward alone.

Hours passed afterward while Harris remained unconscious near death, and nobody realized the Void Walker himself had suddenly disappeared from surrounding territories entirely unexpectedly afterward.

Meanwhile Harlina noticed Harris missing unusually long afterward and immediately felt overwhelming fear because Harris never disappeared without informing somebody emotionally close nearby beforehand usually.

Roku initially joked dramatically that Harris probably "went training with depression again," but concern replaced humor when nobody located him afterward anywhere nearby anymore completely.

Koji instantly organized search operations across dimensional regions afterward while Lunar scanned unstable void resonance signals searching desperately for traces connected toward Harris afterward continuously everywhere.

Days passed painfully during continuous searching efforts while fear spread emotionally among Harris's friends because nobody could locate the Void Walker anywhere throughout nearby dimensional territories afterward.

Finally Lunar detected weakened Eternal Symbol resonance near the Void Throne chamber afterward, causing everyone rushing desperately toward the dimensional gate immediately afterward together silently terrified completely.

When they arrived beside the throne afterward, they found Harris unconscious and severely wounded while dried blood covered surrounding dimensional ground silently nearby afterward horrifyingly everywhere completely.

Harlina immediately collapsed beside Harris emotionally, crying uncontrollably while holding his injured body carefully because his breathing seemed dangerously weak afterward almost disappearing entirely silently nearby.

Koji examined Harris seriously afterward and realized somebody intentionally attempted assassinating the Void Walker before his synchronization completed entirely afterward successfully during recovery stages specifically.

Harris was transported immediately toward advanced medical facilities afterward while dimensional security around the throne increased heavily against possible future assassination attempts nearby completely afterward continuously.

During hospitalization Harris remained unconscious for several days afterward while his friends stayed nearby constantly fearing whether he would survive the mysterious attack completely afterward emotionally together.

Inside unconsciousness meanwhile, Harris experienced terrifying dreams showing endless Crimson Eclipse destruction consuming stars, civilizations, galaxies, and dimensional systems repeatedly across existence afterward infinitely forever silently.

Within the dream, countless unknown voices whispered toward Harris repeatedly, warning him that the Void Walker could either protect existence or destroy everything emotionally connected nearby forever.

Harris saw mysterious shadowed warriors fighting beneath crimson skies afterward while enormous void weapons shattered entire realities during catastrophic battles against unimaginable cosmic horrors repeatedly throughout history silently.

Suddenly one unknown figure turned toward Harris inside the dream afterward and whispered calmly, “The Eclipse does not fear weakness… it fears awakening completely afterward always.”

Harris awakened afterward suddenly inside the hospital while breathing heavily, terrifying everyone nearby because crimson energy briefly covered his eyes during those nightmare visions completely afterward silently.

Koji immediately questioned Harris afterward carefully about the attack, asking whether he recognized the mysterious person responsible attempting killing the Void Walker previously nearby completely afterward suddenly.

Harris explained weakly afterward that somebody shot him unexpectedly before he could react properly, but he never saw the attacker's actual identity clearly nearby afterward unfortunately completely.

Koji's expression darkened afterward instantly because somebody capable attacking the Void Walker directly meant dangerous enemies already moved against Harris secretly throughout cosmic civilization regions afterward already.

While Harris recovered slowly afterward, Koji and Lunar began large investigations searching hidden organizations potentially responsible for attempting assassinating existence's only hope against the Crimson Eclipse completely afterward.

After several difficult weeks Harris finally recovered physically enough returning toward training again despite doctors and friends demanding additional recovery time afterward continuously nearby emotionally together constantly.

Harlina angrily confronted Harris afterward and begged him resting longer because his body still carried severe damage from the assassination attempt previously suffered nearby afterward emotionally completely.

Harris answered quietly afterward, "If enemies already move against me now, then waiting only makes everybody else weaker before the Eclipse arrives eventually afterward completely someday."

Although emotionally hurt by his response afterward, Harlina understood Harris feared wasting remaining time more than physical suffering itself nearby completely afterward silently emotionally alone always.

Weeks passed afterward while Harris trained relentlessly again, and eventually he successfully controlled the Eternal Symbol continuously for several minutes without collapsing afterward finally successfully nearby.

Everyone celebrated emotionally afterward because it marked Harris's first true improvement controlling Void Walker power safely since awakening the Eternal Symbol previously beside the throne nearby completely.

One night while meditating beside the Void Throne afterward, Harris noticed hidden object buried beneath ancient dimensional stone near the throne silently afterward unexpectedly completely nearby carefully.

After removing broken fragments carefully afterward, Harris discovered an old diary sealed using unknown void language and ancient Eternal Symbol markings nearby completely afterward silently hidden there.

The diary belonged to a previous Void Walker, written directly for future successors destined inheriting the burden of protecting existence against the Crimson Eclipse afterward forever silently.

As Harris opened the first page carefully afterward, he discovered hidden information describing legendary Void Weapons capable channeling unimaginable cosmic power beyond normal dimensional limitations completely afterward silently nearby.

The final line written inside the diary said:

“Only the true Void Walker can awaken the weapons sleeping beyond the throne.”

TO BE CONTINUED IN CHAPTER 3

By Harris Ravi

VOID WALKER — SEASON 2

CHAPTER 3: “THE ETERNITY ARROW”

After discovering the hidden diary beneath the Void Throne, Harris immediately began reading the ancient pages carefully beside the silent dimensional chamber afterward.

The first pages described legendary Void Weapons created by previous Void Walkers specifically for resisting the catastrophic arrival of future Crimson Eclipse cycles afterward.

Among every weapon mentioned inside the diary, one name appeared repeatedly with terrifying importance across multiple ancient warnings written emotionally throughout the pages afterward.

The weapon was called the Eternity Arrow, an ancient void artifact carrying power equal toward the infinite force of dimensional void energy itself afterward.

According to the previous Void Walker’s writings, the Eternity Arrow alone possessed enough destructive capability completely destroying the Crimson Eclipse permanently from existence forever afterward entirely.

The diary explained emotionally that whichever Void Walker awakened the Eternity Arrow successfully would gain the final chance saving the entire cosmos from annihilation afterward completely forever.

Harris silently continued reading afterward while realizing his destiny extended beyond survival alone because existence itself depended directly upon finding the legendary weapon eventually afterward someday.

Suddenly Harris sensed the same mysterious presence nearby again afterward, causing his instincts immediately activating the Eternal Symbol defensively around his body silently afterward carefully nearby.

Crimson energy spread across Harris's chest instantly while dimensional pressure surrounded the throne chamber violently, yet this time somebody witnessed everything secretly afterward nearby completely.

Harlina stood quietly behind the throne afterward watching Harris carefully, finally understanding how deeply fear and responsibility constantly burdened him emotionally every single day afterward silently.

Harris quickly deactivated the Eternal Symbol afterward before the power consumed unnecessary energy again, then awkwardly turned toward Harlina standing nearby afterward quietly completely embarrassed slightly.

Harlina walked closer afterward carrying food carefully and said softly, "You've been training endlessly again without eating properly, haven't you?" nearby emotionally afterward silently together.

Harris smiled weakly afterward and accepted the food quietly because hearing concern from Harlina somehow calmed the overwhelming pressure inside his mind afterward emotionally completely nearby.

While eating beside the throne afterward peacefully, Harris suddenly sensed the same killing presence nearby once again moving silently through dimensional darkness surrounding the chamber afterward completely.

Before Harris reacted fully afterward, the mysterious assassin attacked directly toward Harlina using destructive dimensional projectiles designed specifically penetrating Eternal Symbol defensive resonance completely afterward instantly nearby violently.

Without hesitation Harris threw himself directly before Harlina afterward, taking the devastating attack through his own body while protecting her completely from fatal damage nearby afterward emotionally.

Blood spread violently across the throne chamber again while Harlina screamed emotionally, holding Harris desperately after witnessing him sacrifice himself protecting her once more afterward completely nearby.

This time the attack severely damaged Harris physically afterward because the assassin used stronger dimensional weapons specifically designed for killing the Void Walker permanently nearby afterward entirely silently.

The mysterious killer emerged briefly afterward from dimensional shadows wearing black armor covered with unstable void technology unlike anything previously seen nearby afterward completely silently terrifyingly there.

The assassin looked toward the Void Throne afterward and attempted destroying it completely using forbidden dimensional explosives capable destabilizing reality barriers nearby afterward violently immediately afterward suddenly there.

However the throne remained untouched afterward because ancient void protection systems rejected the attack instantly, causing dimensional backlash destroying surrounding terrain violently nearby afterward completely everywhere silently.

Realizing failure afterward, the assassin immediately escaped through unstable void portals before anybody identified him properly nearby afterward completely silently disappearing into dimensional darkness forever temporarily.

Despite severe injuries afterward, Harris grabbed the ancient diary carefully while lifting Harlina protectively onto his shoulder before escaping the throne chamber immediately afterward nearby completely silently.

Harlina cried emotionally afterward while begging Harris stopping because his condition worsened dangerously, yet Harris continued moving despite unbearable pain consuming his exhausted body afterward completely nearby.

They finally returned safely toward the city afterward where Harris was hospitalized immediately again, though this time he thankfully remained fully conscious afterward throughout treatment nearby completely silently.

While recovering afterward, Harris constantly thought about one terrifying question repeatedly: who possessed enough power bypassing the Void Gate security barrier systems completely afterward silently nearby somehow.

News about the second assassination attempt spread rapidly throughout nearby civilizations afterward, causing fear and panic surrounding the Void Walker growing even stronger everywhere nearby completely afterward.

Some people blamed Harris directly afterward for attracting cosmic danger toward civilization, while others believed enemies feared him because he truly could save existence completely afterward forever silently.

After several days Harris recovered physically again afterward and immediately attempted returning toward training despite continuous objections from doctors and emotionally exhausted friends nearby afterward completely silently.

This time Harlina openly argued with Harris afterward, demanding he rest properly instead of constantly destroying himself through endless reckless training routines nearby emotionally afterward completely together.

For the first time Harris truly understood Harlina’s feelings afterward because beneath her anger existed unbearable fear of eventually losing him permanently someday nearby emotionally completely afterward silently there.

During hospitalization meanwhile, Harris completely finished reading the first five diary pages carefully afterward while studying every ancient detail written by previous Void Walkers nearby afterward silently together.

Inside the final page afterward, Harris discovered hidden dimensional coordinates revealing the location of the Eternity Arrow somewhere beyond unstable cosmic territories nearby completely afterward silently hidden carefully.

Harris immediately informed Koji and Lunar afterward about the map, causing both investigators preparing dangerous expeditions searching for the legendary weapon nearby completely afterward silently together immediately afterward.

While Koji and Lunar began researching the map afterward, Harris temporarily stopped isolating himself emotionally and spent more peaceful time together beside his closest friends nearby afterward completely.

For several weeks afterward Harris laughed more frequently, trained alongside everyone peacefully, and slowly experienced moments resembling normal happiness again nearby emotionally afterward completely silently together finally.

Every evening afterward Harris gathered beside his friends reading the diary aloud while everyone listened carefully learning forgotten truths about previous Void Walkers nearby afterward emotionally together silently completely.

One night Harris discovered information describing the ultimate Void Walker technique hidden deeply inside ancient dimensional records afterward completely nearby silently carefully together emotionally there afterward.

The technique was called:

“DOMAIN EXPANSION — INFINITE DESTRUCTION”

According to the diary afterward, Infinite Destruction represented the absolute peak of Void Walker power capable reshaping reality itself completely nearby afterward silently infinitely terrifyingly there emotionally.

When activated completely afterward, the Domain Expansion created an isolated dimensional territory controlled entirely by the Void Walker’s consciousness and emotional synchronization nearby afterward silently completely.

Inside Infinite Destruction afterward, Harris could mentally designate specific targets for total atomic-level erasure while allies remained completely untouched by destruction nearby afterward silently infinitely there emotionally.

The diary warned however afterward that incomplete synchronization while using Infinite Destruction could accidentally erase entire civilizations, dimensional systems, or even cosmic timelines permanently nearby afterward completely silently.

Despite the terrifying danger afterward, Harris understood Infinite Destruction might become humanity’s final weapon against the Crimson Eclipse eventually nearby completely afterward emotionally silently forever someday there.

As the chapter ended afterward, Harris stood beneath the night sky quietly while holding the diary carefully and staring toward distant crimson stars silently nearby emotionally completely afterward.

Then Harris whispered softly toward himself:

“If the Eternity Arrow exists… then maybe this cosmos still has hope.”

TO BE CONTINUED IN CHAPTER 4

By Harris Ravi

VOID WALKER — SEASON 2

CHAPTER 4: “THE QUEEN OF THE VOID”

After reading deeper into the ancient diary, Harris discovered horrifying truth regarding the first Void Walker and Infinite Destruction afterward completely silently nearby.

The diary explained only the First Walker successfully controlled Domain Expansion completely while wielding every Divine Weapon simultaneously against the Crimson Eclipse afterward historically.

During the final cosmic battle, the First Walker activated Infinite Destruction completely and protected existence, but sacrificed his physical body forever afterward completely silently there.

Before dying, the First Walker recorded one final message directly toward every future Void Walker destined inheriting the burden afterward emotionally completely nearby silently forever.

He declared that the next Walker mastering every Divine Weapon and Infinite Destruction completely could save the cosmos without sacrificing themselves afterward permanently nearby completely silently.

After reading those words, Harris became emotionally determined beyond previous limits and immediately began the most dangerous training period ever afterward completely nearby silently emotionally there.

This time however, Harlina refused allowing Harris training alone anymore and personally joined every brutal training session beside him afterward emotionally completely nearby together silently always.

Roku, Reku, and even Jekuna also trained beside Harris afterward because everyone understood the Crimson Eclipse threatened all existence, not only the Void Walker alone.

As weeks passed, Harris’s battle awareness improved dramatically afterward while his instincts became sharp enough sensing dimensional movements invisible toward ordinary fighters nearby completely silently there.

Meanwhile the diary revealed hidden information regarding secret void weapon storage chambers concealed beneath the throne’s dimensional structure afterward completely silently nearby forever hidden there.

Inside those chambers, Harris discovered ancient void weapons designed for elite dimensional combat against Eclipse entities and distributed several weapons toward his closest companions afterward.

Roku immediately grabbed dual energy blades afterward and shouted dramatically, “BRO I FINALLY LOOK LIKE A MAIN CHARACTER NOW,” causing Reku laughing nearby afterward silently completely.

Jekuna selected a massive void spear afterward while muttering quietly, “At least now I can finally compete against monster-level nonsense properly afterward completely silently nearby emotionally.”

The diary additionally explained the Void Walker must eventually obtain the Divine Outfit, an armor perfectly synchronized with the Eternal Symbol afterward completely silently nearby emotionally.

According to the writings, the Divine Outfit amplified synchronization stability greatly and prevented the Void Walker’s body collapsing during prolonged Eternal Symbol activation afterward completely nearby silently.

Another passage mentioned a second hidden diary existing somewhere beyond dimensional territory, containing secrets regarding the Void Queen and advanced Divine Weapon creation afterward completely silently nearby.

The term “Void Queen” immediately confused everyone afterward because no previous records ever mentioned another existence connected directly toward the Void Walker prophecy nearby completely silently.

Months passed afterward while Harris continued training relentlessly, and eventually he successfully controlled the Eternal Symbol continuously for several hours without collapsing afterward completely nearby silently finally.

Despite this progress however, Harris still failed opening stable Void Portals, meaning his synchronization remained incomplete compared toward previous legendary Void Walkers afterward silently nearby completely emotionally.

One night the diary revealed another horrifying truth regarding the Crimson Eclipse cycle and humanity’s repeated destruction afterward completely nearby silently emotionally terrifyingly there forever.

The writings explained every Crimson Eclipse erased civilizations entirely every six hundred thousand years while survivors only lived until the next inevitable cycle afterward completely nearby silently forever.

Every previous Void Walker failed stopping the cycle permanently, only delaying destruction temporarily through sacrifice before history repeated endlessly afterward completely silently nearby emotionally there forever again.

The final sentence written emotionally inside the page said:

“You are the next hope… do not fail where we disappeared.”

Meanwhile far beyond dimensional wastelands, Koji and Lunar finally discovered the hidden location of the Eternity Arrow afterward completely nearby silently emotionally together finally there successfully.

The weapon floated above ancient ruins surrounded by infinite crimson energy pressure capable crushing ordinary dimensional matter instantly afterward completely silently nearby terrifyingly there forever.

Although Koji successfully located the legendary weapon afterward, nobody present could even lift the Eternity Arrow despite using advanced dimensional stabilization technology completely nearby silently forever afterward.

Lunar realized the diary never explained how the weapon actually recognized its rightful owner afterward completely silently nearby emotionally there forever confusing everyone greatly.

Back near the throne that same night, Harris remained awake silently while thinking constantly about the mysterious second diary and masked killer afterward completely nearby emotionally there forever.

Harlina noticed Harris still awake afterward and approached him quietly before asking emotionally, “Why haven’t you slept for days properly anymore?” nearby silently completely afterward there.

Harris answered calmly afterward, “Because while I sleep… someone could attack you or my friends again before I protect them properly afterward completely nearby silently emotionally.”

Hearing those words broke Harlina emotionally because she finally understood Harris feared losing everyone more than death itself afterward completely nearby silently there forever emotionally deeply.

Instead of arguing further afterward, Harlina quietly stayed beside Harris during the night until exhaustion eventually caused her falling asleep peacefully nearby completely silently afterward emotionally there.

Harris smiled softly afterward before carefully carrying Harlina toward his bed so she could rest safely nearby completely silently emotionally there forever peacefully together afterward.

The moment Harris turned away afterward, he sensed the assassin’s presence again nearby and immediately rushed outside before the killer escaped once more silently completely afterward there.

This time Harris finally located the masked assassin directly standing atop distant buildings beneath the dark dimensional night sky afterward completely silently nearby emotionally there forever.

Without hesitation Harris activated the Eternal Symbol fully afterward and attacked instantly, beginning an insane battle moving faster than visible light itself nearby completely silently forever there.

Shockwaves shattered dimensional structures across surrounding regions afterward while crimson energy illuminated the entire city beneath the violent midnight battle completely nearby silently emotionally terrifyingly there forever.

During combat Harris briefly noticed a strange diary inside the assassin's bag containing symbols matching the mysterious Void Queen writings afterward completely silently nearby emotionally there forever.

Before Harris could investigate further afterward, the assassin struck him once directly with overwhelming force exceeding anything Harris previously experienced nearby completely silently forever afterward there emotionally.

The single attack instantly destroyed Harris's synchronization completely afterward and rendered him unconscious immediately while his body launched violently across the sky nearby silently forever afterward there.

Harris fell from nearly one thousand meters afterward before crashing toward the ground with catastrophic speed beyond human survival completely nearby silently terrifyingly there forever emotionally.

BOOOOOOOOM—

The impact created an enormous hundred-meter crater beneath the city afterward while surrounding buildings trembled violently from the devastating collision completely nearby silently forever there emotionally.

The assassin escaped immediately afterward through dimensional distortion before anyone identified his true face beneath the mysterious mask nearby completely silently forever there emotionally afterward.

Inside the building meanwhile, everyone awoke instantly because the impact sound shook the entire region like catastrophic disaster afterward completely nearby silently terrifyingly there forever emotionally.

Harlina desperately searched everywhere afterward for Harris before finally discovering the enormous crater and his unconscious broken body nearby completely silently forever there emotionally devastated afterward.

This time Harris remained hospitalized for an entire week afterward because nearly every bone and muscle throughout his body suffered catastrophic damage completely nearby silently forever afterward there emotionally.

Even while barely conscious afterward, Harris repeatedly attempted standing again for training, but his body physically refused moving properly anymore nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward.

Throughout the entire recovery period afterward, Harlina never left Harris alone once because fear of losing him completely consumed her emotionally nearby silently forever there afterward always together.

Months eventually passed afterward while Harris slowly recovered enough continuing training again, though his body remained permanently damaged from repeated synchronization overloads nearby completely silently forever afterward there.

The countdown toward the Crimson Eclipse decreased rapidly afterward, leaving only three years remaining before the next cycle consumed existence completely nearby silently forever there emotionally terrifyingly.

Finally after endless suffering and training afterward, Harris successfully controlled the Eternal Symbol continuously for an entire day without losing synchronization nearby completely silently forever afterward there emotionally.

However once Harris deactivated the power afterward, his body collapsed completely from exhaustion and he became unable moving independently anymore nearby silently forever afterward there emotionally devastated.

Harlina and Jekuna silently helped Harris walk afterward while realizing the enormous burden slowly destroying his body despite all progress nearby completely silently forever there emotionally together afterward.

As the chapter ended afterward, Harris stared toward the distant crimson sky while whispering weakly:

“If controlling this power already destroys me… what happens when the Eclipse finally arrives?”

TO BE CONTINUED

By Harris Ravi

VOID WALKER — SEASON 2

CHAPTER 5: “THE FALL OF THE LONELY WALKER”

After finally controlling the Eternal Symbol for an entire day, Harris decided obtaining the Divine Outfit became his next absolute objective afterward.

Unfortunately the hidden details regarding the Divine Outfit existed only inside the mysterious second diary connected toward the Void Queen afterward completely silently nearby.

Meanwhile Harris returned toward the Eternity Arrow afterward and attempted lifting the legendary weapon using every ounce of synchronization power available nearby completely silently emotionally there.

Although Harris successfully moved the weapon slightly afterward, he still failed lifting it completely because his synchronization remained incomplete nearby silently forever emotionally there afterward.

Realizing this painful truth afterward, Harris slowly began believing himself becoming a burden toward everyone emotionally supporting him nearby completely silently forever there afterward deeply.

Harris feared his damaged body and incomplete power only endangered friends constantly targeted by enemies connected toward the Crimson Eclipse afterward completely silently nearby emotionally there.

Because of this guilt afterward, Harris made the heartbreaking decision leaving everyone behind temporarily and mastering Infinite Destruction entirely alone nearby completely silently emotionally forever there afterward.

Before disappearing, Harris wrote emotional letters toward every friend and Koji explaining his decision carefully beside the silent throne afterward completely silently nearby emotionally there forever.

Even while leaving afterward, Harris never abandoned hope because he still believed sacrificing himself remained worthwhile if existence and his friends survived afterward completely silently nearby emotionally there.

Harris then began traveling alone afterward searching for additional Divine Weapons connected toward the Void Walker prophecy throughout dangerous dimensional territories nearby completely silently forever there emotionally.

When Harlina discovered Harris's farewell letter afterward, overwhelming sadness consumed her emotionally because she truly felt she lost the person she loved forever nearby completely silently there.

Meanwhile during his journey afterward, Harris encountered the masked assassin again while searching for the legendary Void Sword hidden beyond unstable dimensional wastelands nearby completely silently there emotionally.

This time however Harris fought equally against the assassin afterward because months of brutal training dramatically increased his synchronization and combat abilities nearby completely silently forever there emotionally.

Their battle destroyed entire dimensional cliffs afterward while crimson shockwaves illuminated the dark sky surrounding ancient ruins nearby completely silently forever there emotionally terrifyingly.

Although the assassin escaped once more afterward, Harris successfully obtained the Void Sword hidden beneath ancient dimensional seals nearby completely silently forever there emotionally successfully afterward.

Afterward Harris trained obsessively with the Void Sword every single day until his combat speed and instincts evolved beyond ordinary dimensional limitations nearby completely silently forever emotionally there.

Despite separating himself emotionally from friends afterward, Harris secretly protected them constantly from distant shadows because he feared the assassin targeting them again nearby completely silently forever there.

Harris's fears proved correct afterward when the assassin suddenly attacked Koji during investigations regarding the Crimson Eclipse nearby completely silently forever emotionally terrifyingly there afterward suddenly.

Before the assassin landed the killing strike afterward, Harris appeared instantly and protected Koji while attacking aggressively toward the masked enemy nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward.

Harris attempted removing the assassin's mask afterward, but once again the mysterious enemy escaped through unstable void portals before revealing his identity nearby completely silently forever there emotionally.

Although Harris continued protecting everyone secretly afterward, he noticed Harlina becoming emotionally broken because she stopped caring about sleep, health, and happiness nearby completely silently forever there emotionally.

One afternoon Harlina suddenly collapsed unconscious on the street afterward because exhaustion and emotional stress finally overwhelmed her weakened body nearby completely silently forever emotionally there.

Watching secretly from distant rooftops afterward, Harris immediately rushed toward Harlina and carried her carefully toward the hospital nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward desperately.

After admitting Harlina safely afterward, Harris remained guarding her continuously without sleep because fear of losing her completely consumed him emotionally nearby completely silently forever there afterward deeply.

The assassin secretly noticed Harris protecting Harlina afterward and immediately targeted the hospital intending killing both the Void Walker and the girl emotionally important nearby completely silently there.

When the attack arrived afterward, Harris realized neither his Void Sword nor weakened synchronization could fully block the overwhelming destructive force nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward.

Without hesitation Harris used his own body as a shield afterward, protecting Harlina directly while taking the catastrophic attack himself nearby completely silently forever emotionally there again afterward.

The impact destroyed the hospital rooftop violently afterward and left Harris unconscious while nobody noticed his critically injured body collapsing there nearby completely silently forever emotionally terrifyingly.

For four entire days afterward Harris remained unconscious atop the hospital building exposed toward rain, cold winds, and severe untreated injuries nearby completely silently forever emotionally there.

Eventually Harlina awakened afterward and immediately asked nurses emotionally, “Who admitted me into this hospital before I lost consciousness?” nearby completely silently forever there afterward desperately.

The nurse smiled gently afterward and answered quietly, “Your friend Harris brought you here personally before disappearing toward the rooftop nearby completely silently forever emotionally there.”

Harlina froze completely afterward before whispering shakily, “Wait… I’ve been unconscious here for four entire days already?” nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward terrified.

The nurse nodded silently afterward, causing Harlina immediately rushing desperately toward the rooftop despite weak condition and overwhelming emotional fear nearby completely silently forever there afterward.

Although Harlina believed Harris already disappeared afterward, she still searched the rooftop carefully hoping desperately finding some trace of him nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward.

When Harlina finally discovered Harris unconscious and severely injured atop the rooftop afterward, happiness and unbearable sadness consumed her simultaneously nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward.

Tears streamed continuously afterward while Harlina held Harris tightly and begged him emotionally not abandoning everyone by destroying himself alone nearby completely silently forever there afterward desperately.

Harlina immediately admitted Harris into intensive medical care afterward before informing Roku, Reku, Jekuna, Koji, and Lunar about everything nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward quickly.

Everyone felt relieved Harris survived afterward, but seeing his destroyed condition emotionally devastated them because protecting everyone continued destroying him physically nearby completely silently forever there afterward deeply.

After remaining unconscious for two additional weeks afterward, Harris finally awakened slowly inside the hospital beside worried friends nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward together.

The moment Harris opened his eyes afterward, Harlina slapped him emotionally before shouting angrily about abandoning everyone and carrying unbearable burdens alone nearby completely silently forever there.

Then Harlina tied Harris’s hand directly toward hers afterward so he physically could not disappear again without her noticing nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward together.

For only the second time since birth afterward, Harris cried openly because he finally realized how deeply everyone feared losing him permanently nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward.

Jekuna and Harlina forced Harris resting completely for an entire month afterward despite his constant arguments about training and the approaching Eclipse nearby completely silently forever there emotionally.

This time Harris accepted their feelings afterward and genuinely enjoyed peaceful life beside friends during recovery instead of endlessly isolating himself nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward.

After recovering completely afterward, Harris finally mastered Infinite Destruction and successfully lifted the Eternity Arrow using perfected synchronization nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward triumphantly.

Now wielding the Eternity Arrow afterward, Harris became fully prepared confronting the assassin once again and ending the endless attacks permanently nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward.

Several weeks later afterward, the assassin finally returned personally intending assassinating Harris directly once more beneath the dark dimensional night sky nearby completely silently forever there emotionally afterward.

This time however Harris moved faster instantly afterward, defeating the assassin within only two overwhelming attacks using the Eternity Arrow and Void Sword together nearby completely silently forever there emotionally.

Harris removed the assassin's mask afterward and finally revealed the enemy's true identity before shocked friends standing nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward together.

The assassin's name was Izuku.

Before losing consciousness afterward, Izuku revealed quietly that he served directly beneath the Crimson Eclipse itself as its chosen assistant nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward terrifyingly.

Everyone stood frozen afterward because realizing the Crimson Eclipse possessed intelligent followers changed everything they previously understood about the coming catastrophe nearby completely silently forever there emotionally.

Afterward Harris obtained the mysterious second diary and immediately began reading hidden truths regarding the Void Queen and Divine Outfit nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward carefully.

The diary explained the Crimson Eclipse actually manifested as an enormous dimensional lunar eclipse causing every Void Monster awakening simultaneously afterward completely silently forever there emotionally terrifyingly.

During the Eclipse afterward, endless void creatures would invade civilization territories across the cosmos until existence itself collapsed completely nearby silently forever emotionally there afterward horrifyingly.

The diary additionally revealed the Divine Outfit appears only when the true Void Walker becomes emotionally prepared sacrificing everything for existence nearby completely silently forever there afterward deeply.

Another passage stated that after lifting the Eternity Arrow successfully, the Void Queen herself would eventually appear protecting the Void Walker nearby completely silently forever emotionally there afterward mysteriously.

Using hidden knowledge from the diary afterward, Harris created Divine Weapons and combat outfits for his friends so they could survive the coming war nearby completely silently forever there emotionally.

Now fully united afterward, Harris and every surviving companion finally prepared themselves emotionally and physically for the future battle against the Crimson Eclipse nearby completely silently forever there.

Only two and a half years remained before the next Eclipse cycle arrived.

During those peaceful remaining years afterward, Harris and his friends enjoyed life together more genuinely despite approaching cosmic destruction nearby completely silently forever there emotionally together.

Harlina's love toward Harris grew deeper every single day afterward, yet she still lacked courage confessing her feelings openly before everyone nearby completely silently forever there emotionally.

As the chapter ended afterward, Harlina quietly looked toward Harris laughing beside friends and whispered silently toward herself:

"I just want this happiness… to survive forever."

TO BE CONTINUED

By Harris Ravi