VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 1: THE BOY WHO FEARED LOSING EVERYONE

PART 1: THE TRAINING THAT NEVER HAPPENED

The morning sun slowly rose above Ravnym.

Golden light covered the streets.

Birds sang from rooftops.

Children ran through the town laughing.

Shop owners opened their stores.

For the first time in what felt like forever…

The town was peaceful.

No alarms.

No monsters.

No battles.

No portals.

Just another beautiful morning.

Harris and Harlina walked side by side through the quiet streets.

The cool morning wind moved through Harlina's silver-white hair.

For a few moments neither of them spoke.

They simply enjoyed the peace.

Something both of them rarely had.

Harlina suddenly glanced toward him.

"You didn't sleep again, did you?"

Harris immediately looked away.

"I slept."

"You didn't."

"I did."

"You definitely didn't."

"I closed my eyes."

"That's not sleeping."

"..."

"See?"

A small laugh escaped Harlina.

Even Harris couldn't stop himself from smiling.

"You know," Harlina continued, "one day I'm going to force you to sleep properly."

Harris nodded.

"Good luck."

"I'll succeed."

"I survived Omega's armies."

"I am more dangerous."

Harris laughed.

For a few seconds...

The weight on his shoulders felt lighter.

Soon they arrived at Koji's house.

The front gate opened.

Koji immediately stepped outside.

"Finally!"

Lunar followed behind him.

"You two are late."

"We're three minutes early."

"Still late."

"That makes absolutely no sense."

"It makes sense to me."

Before the argument could continue...

Two familiar figures appeared.

Universe 2 Harris.

Universe 6 Harris.

The two alternate versions walked toward them.

Both had changed greatly since joining the group.

For the first time in years...

Neither looked afraid.

Universe 2 Harris smiled.

"What's the mission today?"

Universe 6 Harris crossed his arms.

"Please don't tell me another emotional speech."

Koji pointed at Harris.

"That's his job."

Harris looked offended.

"Excuse me."

"You literally gave three speeches yesterday."

"They were important speeches."

"They were twenty-minute speeches."

"They were motivational."

"They were long."

Everyone laughed.

Even Harris.

For a moment...

Nobody noticed how tired his eyes looked.

Then Harris suddenly became serious.

"I actually called everyone for something important."

The group immediately focused.

"Training."

Universe 2 Harris nodded.

"Good."

Universe 6 Harris smirked.

"I was getting bored."

Koji grinned.

"Finally."

Lunar cracked her knuckles.

"I needed this."

Harris smiled.

"Then let's go."

Before anyone could ask where...

He raised his hand.

A Void Symbol appeared.

Space itself distorted.

The air trembled.

The ground shook.

Dark-purple energy spread across the area.

Everyone took a step back.

BOOOOOOOOM!!

A gigantic Void Portal opened behind Harris.

Not an ordinary portal.

Not the kind they usually used.

This one was different.

Ancient.

Silent.

Mysterious.

Powerful.

Everyone froze.

Beyond the portal...

An entirely different world existed.

A crimson-purple sky stretched endlessly above countless mountains.

Ancient battlefields covered the land.

Broken swords were buried in the ground.

Ruined fortresses stood in the distance.

Gigantic cracks scarred the earth.

The entire world looked like it had survived thousands of wars.

Nobody spoke.

For several seconds.

Koji finally pointed.

"...What."

Lunar blinked repeatedly.

"...What."

Universe 2 Harris pointed at the portal.

"...WHAT."

Universe 6 Harris looked genuinely shocked.

Which almost never happened.

Even Harlina stared silently.

"Harris."

"Yeah?"

"When exactly were you planning to tell us this place exists?"

Harris scratched the back of his head.

"I forgot."

"YOU FORGOT?!"

The entire group yelled at once.

For the first time in days...

A genuine smile appeared on Harris's face.

Harlina folded her arms.

"When did you find this place?"

The smile disappeared.

Silence.

A memory flashed through Harris's mind.

Pain.

Loneliness.

Fear.

Blood.

A broken body lying in darkness.

Training until his hands could no longer move.

Training until he couldn't stand.

Training because he believed everyone would die if he stopped.

His eyes lowered.

Then a small sad smile appeared.

"One bad memory ago."

The atmosphere changed immediately.

Nobody asked another question.

Because they already understood.

This place wasn't found during a victory.

It was found during one of the darkest moments of his life.

Harlina's expression softened.

She wanted to ask more.

But she couldn't.

Not after hearing that answer.

"Let's go."

Harris stepped through the portal.

Everyone followed.

The moment they entered...

The pressure hit them.

BOOM!!

The entire world felt heavy.

As if the land itself remembered every battle fought upon it.

Every scar.

Every death.

Every sacrifice.

Universe 6 Harris immediately noticed something.

"This place..."

Universe 2 Harris nodded.

"It's absorbing Void Energy."

Harris smiled.

"Exactly."

Lunar looked around.

"So basically the perfect training ground."

"Yep."

Koji looked at the destroyed mountains.

"You train here alone?"

"Usually."

Everyone became silent again.

Even Universe 1 and 3 weren't here yet...

Yet somehow the loneliness of this place felt familiar.

Harris walked toward the center of the battlefield.

The others followed.

Finally he stopped.

He turned around.

His expression became serious.

"I want both of you to fight me."

Universe 2 Harris nodded.

"Fine."

Universe 6 Harris nodded.

"Same."

Then Harris added:

"Use your Void Powers at full strength."

Everyone blinked.

Universe 6 Harris frowned.

"Full strength?"

"Yes."

Universe 2 Harris stared.

"What about you?"

Harris smiled.

"I'll fight in my base form."

Silence.

The wind stopped.

Nobody moved.

Nobody spoke.

Then—

"No."

Harlina's answer came instantly.

Harris blinked.

"What?"

"No."

Universe 6 Harris immediately crossed his arms.

"No."

Universe 2 Harris shook his head.

"No."

Koji joined.

"No."

Lunar joined.

"Absolutely not."

Harris looked around.

"...Why is everyone saying no?"

Nobody answered immediately.

Then Harlina stepped forward.

"Because you're injured."

"I'm fine."

"You're lying."

"I'm not."

"You are."

"I'm not."

"You are."

"I'm not."

"You almost collapsed yesterday."

"..."

"You didn't answer."

"..."

"You see?"

Harris sighed.

Universe 2 Harris suddenly pointed toward Harris's arm.

The bandages.

Universe 6 Harris pointed toward his shoulder.

The hidden wounds.

Koji pointed toward his exhausted eyes.

Lunar pointed toward his trembling hand.

For a moment...

Nobody said anything.

Then Universe 6 Harris finally spoke.

"We can see it."

Universe 2 Harris nodded.

"Your body isn't ready."

Harlina's voice trembled.

"Harris..."

"We know you're trying."

"But you're hurting yourself."

For the first time...

Nobody saw the Void Walker.

The hero.

The legend.

The savior.

They only saw Harris.

A tired boy carrying too much.

Harris lowered his head.

The smile slowly disappeared.

"So..."

"You won't fight me."

Silence.

Nobody answered.

Because they didn't need to.

The answer was already there.

Several seconds passed.

Then Harris forced a smile.

A fake one.

"...Okay."

One word.

Just one word.

Yet it felt heavier than any battle.

Because everyone heard it.

The disappointment.

The sadness.

The loneliness.

For a moment...

It almost sounded like he thought they didn't believe in him.

"Harris—"

Harlina stepped forward.

But he had already turned away.

A Void Portal appeared.

Without another word...

Without another smile...

Without looking back...

He walked through it.

And disappeared.

The portal closed.

Silence.

Nobody moved.

Nobody spoke.

The battlefield suddenly felt colder.

Koji clenched his fists.

"Damn it..."

Lunar lowered her head.

Universe 2 Harris sighed.

Universe 6 Harris looked away.

Harlina stared at the place where Harris vanished.

A single tear appeared in her eye.

Because they knew something.

They were right.

His body wasn't ready.

But for the first time...

They had seen how much those words hurt him.

And somewhere far away...

At the edge of the training world...

Harris sat alone on a cliff.

Looking at the endless sky.

Not smiling.

Not speaking.

Not moving.

Only thinking.

Thinking about the nightmare.

Thinking about Omega.

Thinking about his friends dying.

Thinking about the universes he couldn't save.

And for the first time that morning...

The peaceful smile was completely gone.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 1: THE BOY WHO FEARED LOSING EVERYONE

PART 2: THE MASK RETURNS

The Place Nobody Knew

Far away from Ravnym...

Beyond mountains.

Beyond abandoned battlefields.

Beyond the scars of ancient wars.

Harris sat alone.

At the edge of the training world.

The same cliff where he always came whenever his thoughts became too heavy.

The wind blew through his dark hair.

His eyes remained fixed on the endless horizon.

The words from earlier still echoed inside his mind.

"No."

"You're injured."

"Your body isn't ready."

He knew they were right.

Every part of him knew.

But it still hurt.

Not because they refused.

But because he wanted to become stronger.

Faster.

Better.

Before Omega reached them.

He closed his eyes.

Images flashed through his mind.

Destroyed universes.

Dead cities.

Burning skies.

Screaming civilians.

Countless Harris versions falling one after another.

And then...

Harlina.

Koji.

Lunar.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

Dead.

Harris immediately opened his eyes.

His breathing became heavier.

"No..."

He clenched his fists.

"I won't let that happen."

Slowly he stood.

If nobody wanted to train with him...

Then he would train alone.

Solo Training

BOOOOM!!

The ground exploded beneath his feet.

Harris shot forward.

Without Void Powers.

Without enhancement.

Without transformations.

Only raw skill.

He punched.

Kicked.

Dodged.

Countered.

Moved between giant stone pillars.

CRASH!!

A mountain-sized boulder shattered.

BOOM!!

Another one exploded.

Minutes passed.

Then an hour.

Then another.

His wounds reopened.

Blood appeared beneath bandages.

Sweat covered his face.

His breathing became heavier.

But he never stopped.

Not once.

Far away...

Inside his consciousness...

The Creator watched silently.

The Third Voice watched silently.

Buddy watched silently.

None of them interrupted.

Because they knew.

The battle Harris was fighting wasn't against an enemy.

It was against fear.

Something Is Wrong

Suddenly...

Harris stopped moving.

The entire world became silent.

His expression changed.

His instincts screamed.

Danger.

A massive danger.

Something was coming.

His eyes narrowed.

Then he looked toward Ravnym.

"No..."

Without hesitation...

He jumped.

BOOOOOOOOM!!

The cliff shattered.

Seconds later...

He opened a Void Portal.

And disappeared.

Above Ravnym

The sky was peaceful.

People were walking through markets.

Children were playing.

Families were enjoying the morning.

Nobody noticed the dark figure high above the clouds.

Harris.

Flying silently.

Hidden from everyone.

His eyes scanned the entire town.

Then—

CRAAAAAAACK!!

Space split apart.

The sky shattered.

Everyone below froze.

A gigantic Void Portal appeared directly above Ravnym.

The clouds vanished.

The sun disappeared.

Darkness swallowed the sky.

Panic spread instantly.

"What is that?!"

"RUN!"

"MONSTERS!"

The portal continued growing.

Bigger.

Bigger.

Bigger.

Then...

Something stepped out.

A Void Monster.

Then another.

Then another.

Then hundreds.

Then thousands.

The sky became black.

An army.

And behind them...

Two figures emerged.

Both looked exactly like Harris.

Both smiled coldly.

Both wore corrupted armor.

Both possessed crimson glowing eyes.

Omega's soldiers.

Two more Harris versions.

Controlled.

Broken.

Enslaved.

High above the town...

Harris stared at them.

Then...

He smiled.

Not because he was happy.

But because he recognized the situation.

Fear.

The same fear he had seen countless times.

And he knew exactly what he needed to do.

The Old Mask

A Void Portal opened beside him.

From inside...

An old object floated out.

A mask.

The same mask from his earliest battles.

The mask he wore before becoming a symbol.

Before becoming the Void Walker.

Before becoming a legend.

The mask of a lonely fighter.

Harris grabbed it.

His smile widened.

"I haven't used this in a while."

Then—

He put it on.

The Barrier

Harris raised one hand.

BOOOOOOOOOOM!!

A massive transparent barrier erupted around the entire city.

It surrounded every building.

Every street.

Every civilian.

Nothing could enter.

Nothing could leave.

The people inside were protected.

But they could still see everything.

Back at Koji's house—

Everyone rushed outside.

Koji froze.

Lunar froze.

Harlina froze.

Universe 2 Harris froze.

Universe 6 Harris froze.

"What happened?!"

Then they saw the barrier.

The monsters.

The portal.

And a single figure floating in the sky.

Wearing a mask.

Harris.

The Declaration

The masked Harris slowly descended.

Landing directly in front of the invading army.

The ground cracked.

Silence spread.

Thousands of monsters stared.

Two corrupted Harris versions stared.

The entire town stared.

Then...

Harris laughed.

A loud laugh.

A fearless laugh.

A dangerous laugh.

His voice echoed through the entire city.

"LET'S BEGIN."

The words shook the battlefield.

Everyone felt chills.

Then...

A Void Symbol appeared beside his hand.

The beginning of his power activation.

Everyone immediately noticed.

But suddenly...

The symbol disappeared.

Harris lowered his hand.

And smiled.

"No."

The battlefield became silent.

The corrupted versions frowned.

Harlina's eyes widened.

Koji froze.

Lunar stared.

Universe 2 Harris immediately knew something was wrong.

Universe 6 Harris clenched his fists.

Then Harris spoke.

"I don't need to activate my powers for this silly matter."

Silence.

Absolute silence.

The entire town heard it.

Every civilian.

Every friend.

Every ally.

Everyone.

And nobody could believe it.

Shock

Harlina's eyes immediately filled with tears.

"No..."

Koji looked horrified.

"What is he doing?"

Lunar clenched his fists.

"He's pushing himself again."

Universe 2 Harris lowered his head.

Universe 6 Harris looked furious.

Inside Harris's consciousness—

The Creator stood up.

"What?"

The Third Voice looked shocked.

Buddy nearly exploded.

"WHAT IS HE DOING?!"

The Enemy's Confusion

The two corrupted Harris versions stared.

Even they looked confused.

One of them laughed.

"You're joking."

The second one smiled.

"You refuse your powers?"

Harris shrugged.

"I only need these."

He raised his fists.

And smiled.

The same smile that frightened enemies.

The same smile that worried friends.

The Battle Begins

A monster charged.

Then another.

Then thousands.

The ground shook.

The sky darkened.

The army rushed forward.

And Harris smiled.

"Come."

BOOOOOOOOOOOM!!!!

The battlefield exploded.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 1: THE BOY WHO FEARED LOSING EVERYONE

PART 3: THE HERO WHO REFUSED TO FALL

The Battle Begins

BOOOOOOOOOOOOOM!!!

The battlefield exploded.

Thousands of Void Monsters rushed toward Harris like a living tsunami.

The ground trembled beneath their numbers.

The sky disappeared beneath their shadows.

Every civilian inside the barrier froze.

Every friend watched in horror.

And Harris...

Simply smiled.

The old mask covered his face.

Only his eyes were visible.

Calm.

Fearless.

Dangerously calm.

One monster swung its giant claw.

CRACK!!

Harris caught it with one hand.

The monster froze.

The entire town froze.

Then—

BOOOOOOM!!

Harris punched straight through its chest.

The monster exploded into darkness.

Another monster attacked.

Then ten.

Then fifty.

Then hundreds.

Harris moved.

No Void Powers.

No Aura.

No Transformation.

No Enhancement.

Only Harris.

Five Minutes of Terror

For the next five minutes...

The battlefield became a nightmare.

But not for Harris.

For the monsters.

CRASH!!

A giant beast flew through six buildings before disappearing.

BOOM!!

Another lost its head.

THUD!!

One hundred monsters fell.

CRACK!!

Another wave disappeared.

Every movement was perfect.

Every dodge was perfect.

Every attack landed exactly where it needed to.

The civilians could barely follow him.

"He disappeared!"

"No!"

"HE'S THERE!"

"NO HE'S OVER THERE!"

Even Koji couldn't follow completely.

Lunar stared in disbelief.

"That's his base form..."

Universe 2 Harris remained silent.

Universe 6 Harris slowly clenched his fists.

Because they understood something.

This wasn't normal.

Harris was fighting like someone who had already accepted death.

The Smile

The monsters kept coming.

The wounds beneath Harris's bandages reopened.

Blood slowly appeared.

His breathing became heavier.

His body trembled.

Yet…

He kept smiling.

The same smile.

The same terrifying smile.

The smile that appeared whenever he decided to carry everything alone.

Harlina noticed immediately.

Her hands began shaking.

"No..."

She knew that smile.

Everyone did.

Because it was the smile Harris wore whenever he was hurting the most.

The End of the Army

Five minutes.

Only five minutes.

Then...

Silence.

Thousands of monster bodies covered the battlefield.

Not one remained standing.

Not one.

The entire town stood speechless.

Only three people remained.

The two corrupted Harris versions.

And Harris.

Standing alone.

Blood dripped from his arm.

His breathing was uneven.

But he still smiled.

The Insult

The first corrupted Harris laughed.

"That's it?"

The second one smirked.

"We expected more."

Harris tilted his head.

Then laughed.

Actually laughed.

The sound echoed through the battlefield.

"You two are weaker than Killer."

Silence.

The corrupted versions froze.

The civilians froze.

Koji froze.

Lunar froze.

Universe 2 Harris smiled.

Universe 6 Harris laughed.

The corrupted versions became furious.

"KILL HIM!!"

Two Against One

BOOOOOOM!!

The battle began.

The first corrupted version attacked from the front.

The second appeared behind Harris.

A perfect combination.

CRASH!!

Harris blocked one attack.

BOOM!!

The second attack hit his ribs.

CRACK!!

A third strike hit his shoulder.

Blood flew.

Harlina's eyes widened.

"HARRIS!"

The town watched in horror.

The attacks never stopped.

BOOM!!

CRASH!!

THUD!!

BOOM!!

The two versions attacked together relentlessly.

Even Harris struggled.

Even Harris couldn't perfectly avoid everything.

For the first time...

The enemy landed clean hits.

More blood.

More wounds.

More pain.

Yet...

The smile remained.

The Fear of His Friends

Inside the barrier...

Nobody spoke.

Nobody could.

Because every hit felt like it landed on their hearts.

Koji looked away.

Lunar lowered his head.

Mika began crying.

Lina couldn't watch.

Reku clenched his fists until they bled.

Roku remained silent.

Universe 2 Harris looked terrified.

Universe 6 Harris looked angry.

And Harlina...

Couldn't stop crying.

Because she knew.

Harris wasn't trying to win.

He was trying to protect everyone.

Again.

Alone.

The Limit

BOOOOOOOOM!!

A combined attack sent Harris crashing into the ground.

The battlefield shook.

Dust filled the air.

Silence.

Then...

A laugh.

The dust slowly parted.

Harris stood up.

Covered in blood.

Smiling.

The corrupted versions stared.

The town stared.

Even Creator stared.

Harris wiped blood from his mouth.

Then spoke.

"I underestimated you two."

The corrupted versions smiled.

Finally.

A weakness.

Then Harris continued.

"But don't think..."

His smile widened.

"You can defeat me."

Eternal Arrow

Slowly...

Harris raised his hand.

The sky trembled.

A familiar golden light appeared.

Everyone immediately recognized it.

The Eternal Arrow.

The legendary weapon.

The weapon that had saved Universe 2 Harris.

The weapon capable of destroying Omega's control.

The entire town gasped.

The corrupted versions laughed.

"Hypocrite."

"You said you wouldn't use your powers."

The first one smirked.

"What happened to fighting without powers?"

Silence.

Then Harris smiled.

A genuine smile.

The kind that always confused enemies.

"You are correct."

The two versions smirked.

Then Harris pointed toward the Eternal Arrow.

"I didn't use my power."

Confusion.

"What?"

Harris laughed.

"This isn't my power."

The Eternal Arrow floated beside him.

"My power and I."

Then he pointed toward the Arrow.

"This is Buddy."

Then pointed toward himself.

"And this is me."

The battlefield became silent.

The corrupted versions froze.

The town froze.

Creator froze.

Third Voice froze.

Buddy froze.

"..."

"..."

"..."

Even Buddy didn't know whether to be proud or annoyed.

The Final Move

Harris's legs trembled.

His vision blurred.

His body had already reached its limit.

He knew it.

Creator knew it.

Buddy knew it.

Everyone knew it.

Yet he smiled.

One final time.

"This battle..."

A Void Portal opened behind the corrupted versions.

The secret training world appeared.

"...is over."

The Eternal Arrow fired.

SHIIIIIIIIIIIIIIING!!!!

Two golden lights crossed the battlefield.

The corrupted versions reacted too late.

CRACK!!

CRACK!!

The control gems shattered instantly.

The crimson glow vanished from their eyes.

But the force threw them backward.

Both fell directly into the Void Portal.

The portal closed.

Silence.

The battle was over.

The barrier slowly disappeared.

The town erupted into cheers.

They thought the enemies were dead.

They thought Harris had won.

They thought everything was over.

But none of them noticed one thing.

As everyone celebrated...

Harris quietly opened another portal.

And disappeared.

Following the two fallen versions.

Elsewhere...

Inside the training world.

Two injured Harris versions slowly opened their eyes.

Pain.

Confusion.

Memories returning.

Omega's control broken.

Then they saw someone walking toward them.

Covered in blood.

Covered in injuries.

Still smiling.

Harris.

The Original.

The one they had just fought.

The one who should hate them.

The one who should have killed them.

Instead...

He knelt beside them.

And placed a hand on each of their shoulders.

A healing light appeared.

The two versions froze.

Because the first thing Harris said was:

"Welcome back."

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 1: THE BOY WHO FEARED LOSING EVERYONE

PART 4: THE NIGHTMARE OF OMEGA

Welcome Back

The training world was silent.

The same abandoned battlefield.

The same endless purple sky.

The same lonely place where Harris had spent countless hours training alone.

Universe 1 Harris and Universe 3 Harris slowly opened their eyes.

Pain shot through their bodies.

Fragments of memories returned.

The destruction.

The battles.

The screams.

Omega Void Emperor.

Then they saw him.

The Original Harris.

Covered in blood.

Covered in injuries.

Standing in front of them.

Still smiling.

Universe 1 Harris stared.

"You..."

Universe 3 Harris looked confused.

"Why are we alive?"

Harris tilted his head.

"Why wouldn't you be?"

The two versions froze.

For several seconds...

Neither spoke.

Finally Universe 1 Harris asked:

"You defeated us."

"Yes."

"You broke Omega's control."

"Yes."

"You could've killed us."

"Yes."

Silence.

Then Harris smiled.

"So?"

The two versions blinked.

"So?!"

Harris looked genuinely confused.

"Why would I kill you two?"

Silence.

The question completely shattered their expectations.

Because for years...

Every battlefield they had seen ended with death.

Not mercy.

Not kindness.

Death.

Yet this Harris...

The strongest one they had ever met...

Didn't even understand why they expected him to kill them.

Names

Harris sat beside them.

Ignoring the pain throughout his body.

Ignoring the blood running down his arm.

Ignoring everything.

"So."

He pointed at the first version.

"Universe?"

"Universe 1."

He pointed at the second.

"Universe 3."

Harris smiled.

"Nice to meet you."

Universe 1 Harris and Universe 3 Harris looked at each other.

Both were still trying to understand him.

The Truth About Omega

The conversation became serious.

Harris asked quietly:

"Your universes..."

The smile disappeared slightly.

"Are they still alive?"

The atmosphere changed.

Universe 1 Harris lowered his head.

Universe 3 Harris clenched his fists.

Pain filled their eyes.

"No."

Silence.

"Our worlds are gone."

"Our cities are gone."

"Our people are gone."

"Our friends..."

Their voices shook.

"Captured."

Harris slowly closed his eyes.

For a moment...

Nobody spoke.

The wind moved across the battlefield.

Then Harris smiled again.

A calm smile.

A determined smile.

"Don't worry."

The two versions looked up.

Harris's eyes were completely serious.

"I'll save them."

Silence.

Both versions froze.

"What?"

"I'll save every universe."

The wind stopped.

Universe 1 Harris stared.

Universe 3 Harris stared.

As if they were looking at something impossible.

Because nobody had ever spoken those words before.

Not with confidence.

Not after seeing Omega.

Not after witnessing the destruction.

Yet Harris said it as naturally as breathing.

Angry At Friends

Universe 3 Harris suddenly noticed something.

"Wait."

"You mentioned your friends earlier."

Harris nodded.

"They alive?"

"Yes."

The two versions sighed with relief.

Then Universe 1 Harris asked:

"Then why do you look upset?"

Harris immediately answered.

"They refused to train with me."

Silence.

"..."

"..."

"..."

Universe 1 Harris blinked.

Universe 3 Harris blinked.

Then both started laughing.

Actually laughing.

For the first time in years.

The sound echoed through the training world.

Harris looked offended.

"It's serious."

That only made them laugh harder.

Even Harris couldn't stop himself from smiling.

For a brief moment...

All three Harris versions forgot the war.

Forgot Omega.

Forgot destruction.

Forgot pain.

And simply laughed.

Collapse

Then suddenly—

Harris's vision blurred.

The smile disappeared.

His body swayed.

Universe 1 Harris immediately noticed.

"Harris?"

Universe 3 Harris stood.

"What's wrong?"

Harris smiled weakly.

"Nothing."

Then—

THUD!!

His body collapsed.

The two versions froze.

"HARRIS!"

Blood appeared beneath him.

The reopened wounds finally reached their limit.

Universe 1 Harris stared in horror.

"This is NOTHING?!"

Universe 3 Harris looked equally shocked.

Yet even while lying on the ground...

Harris was still smiling.

Return To Town

Several minutes later...

A Void Portal opened.

The three Harris versions returned to Ravnym.

Everyone immediately ran toward them.

"HARRIS!"

"HARRIS!"

"HARRIS!"

The original Harris raised one hand.

"I'm alive."

Everyone sighed.

Then Harris pointed.

"This is Universe 1 Harris."

Then pointed again.

"And this is Universe 3 Harris."

Everyone greeted them.

Before anyone could ask questions...

Harris turned around.

And walked away.

Toward another portal.

Universe 1 Harris blinked.

"Where's he going?"

Universe 2 Harris sighed.

"Training."

Universe 3 Harris stared.

"Again?"

Universe 6 Harris nodded.

"Again."

The two new versions looked horrified.

The Different Harris

Later that evening…

The group sat together.

Universe 1 and Universe 3 explained everything.

Their destroyed universes.

Their captured friends.

Omega's army.

The endless battles.

Then they revealed something else.

"Harris is weak."

Silence.

Everyone froze.

The two versions explained what they saw.

The blood.

The injuries.

The collapse.

The trembling.

The room became quiet.

Finally Koji spoke.

"Our Harris is different."

The two versions looked at him.

Koji smiled sadly.

"Not by face."

"Not by power."

"But by character."

Everyone nodded.

Because they knew.

Most Harris versions fought because they had to.

Their Harris fought because he wanted everyone to smile.

Even if it destroyed him.

Rooftop

Night arrived.

The stars filled the sky.

The town became quiet.

Meanwhile...

Harris was nowhere to be found.

Everyone searched.

Eventually Universe 6 Harris pointed upward.

"There."

Everyone looked.

And froze.

Harris was sleeping on the rooftop terrace.

Still covered in bandages.

Still injured.

Still exhausted.

Yet smiling.

The group climbed up quietly.

Nobody wanted to wake him.

For a few minutes...

Everyone simply sat around him.

Watching.

Protecting him.

Like he always protected them.

Talking In Sleep

Suddenly...

Harris spoke.

Everyone jumped.

"...Harlina..."

Harlina froze.

"...Koji..."

Koji smiled.

"...Lunar..."

Lunar looked away.

"...Lina..."

"...Mika..."

"...Reku..."

"...Roku..."

"...Harris 2..."

"...Harris 1..."

"...Harris 3..."

"...Harris 6..."

Everyone smiled.

They knew what usually came next.

A heartfelt sentence.

A friendship speech.

A heroic declaration.

Instead—

"...Don't speak with me."

Silence.

Then everyone burst out laughing.

Even Harlina laughed.

"He's still angry."

The Nightmare

Far away...

Inside Harris's dream.

Darkness.

An endless Void.

And standing within it...

Omega Void Emperor.

For the first time.

Face to face.

The ruler of destruction.

And the boy carrying the burden of saving everything.

Omega smiled.

"So."

"The Original."

Harris smiled back.

"You're getting close to your death."

Omega laughed.

The entire Void shook.

"My death?"

His crimson eyes glowed.

"First find the remaining Books."

Images appeared around them.

Destroyed universes.

Captured friends.

Burning worlds.

Then Omega smiled.

"And save them from my soldiers."

For the first time...

Fear appeared in Harris's eyes.

Not for himself.

For everyone else.

Awakening

"HARLINA!"

"KOJI!"

"LUNAR!"

The images continued.

Dead friends.

Destroyed futures.

Failure.

Loss.

Fear.

Then—

Harris suddenly woke up.

His entire body trembling.

Sweat covered his face.

His breathing became wild.

And before he realized it...

He shouted loud enough for the entire rooftop to hear:

"DON'T TOUCH THEM AGAIN!"

Everyone froze.

The stars seemed to stop shining.

The rooftop became silent.

And for the first time...

They saw genuine fear inside Harris's eyes.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 1: THE BOY WHO FEARED LOSING EVERYONE

PART 5: THE BURDEN OF THE VOID WALKER

"DON'T TOUCH THEM AGAIN!"

The words echoed across the rooftop.

The entire group froze.

Nobody had ever heard Harris shout like that before.

Not Koji.

Not Lunar.

Not Universe 2 Harris.

Not Universe 6 Harris.

Not even Harlina.

Harris sat there breathing heavily.

His hands were shaking.

Sweat covered his face.

His eyes were wide open.

Still trapped between nightmare and reality.

For a few seconds...

Nobody spoke.

Then Harlina stood up.

Slowly.

Quietly.

But everyone could feel it.

The emotions she had been holding back for weeks.

Months.

Maybe even longer.

"Harris."

He didn't answer.

"Harris."

Still nothing.

His eyes remained fixed on the floor.

Then Harlina finally exploded.

Harlina's Anger

"WHAT IS WRONG WITH YOU?!"

Everyone jumped.

Even the alternate Harris versions.

"YOU KEEP GETTING HURT!"

"YOU KEEP HIDING EVERYTHING!"

"YOU KEEP TRYING TO DO EVERYTHING ALONE!"

"HARRIS, WE ARE RIGHT HERE!"

Silence.

Harris still didn't answer.

Not even once.

Not because he didn't care.

Because he couldn't.

Every time he looked at them...

He saw the nightmare.

The fear.

The possibility of losing them.

And it terrified him.

Harlina stepped closer.

Tears were running down her face.

"LOOK AT ME!"

Harris slowly lowered his head.

Still silent.

That hurt even more.

Because this wasn't the Harris she knew.

The Harris who always smiled.

The Harris who always comforted others.

The Harris who always found the right words.

Now there was only silence.

Leaving

Without saying anything...

Harris stood up.

A Void Portal appeared.

Everyone immediately realized what he was doing.

"No."

Koji stepped forward.

"Harris."

Lunar moved in front of him.

"Don't."

Universe 2 Harris blocked one side.

Universe 6 Harris blocked the other.

Universe 1 and Universe 3 joined them.

Nobody intended to let him leave.

Not again.

But Harris kept walking.

The portal slowly expanded.

His expression remained empty.

Like someone who had already made a decision.

Collapse

Just before reaching the portal—

THUD!!

His body collapsed.

Blood splashed onto the rooftop.

"HARRIS!!"

Everyone rushed forward.

His body refused to continue.

The wounds from the battle.

The training.

The exhaustion.

The fear.

Everything had finally caught up to him.

Slowly...

His eyes closed.

Darkness consumed everything.

Inside Consciousness

A familiar place appeared.

The endless Void.

The Creator.

The Third Voice.

Buddy.

All three stood waiting.

For once...

None of them looked angry.

None of them looked disappointed.

Only concerned.

The Breaking Point

Harris appeared before them.

Still silent.

Still angry.

Still hurting.

Buddy crossed his arms.

"You forgot the condition."

Silence.

The condition.

The promise.

Never abandon his friends.

Never carry everything alone.

The very thing he was doing again.

The Creator stepped forward.

"Why are you refusing your powers?"

Harris answered immediately.

"I don't need them."

The three froze.

The Third Voice frowned.

"You don't need them?"

"I don't need powers."

"I don't need clues."

"I don't need help."

Silence.

Then Harris finally shouted.

"I WILL FIGHT OMEGA VOID EMPEROR ALONE!"

The Void trembled.

Years of fear exploded from his heart.

"I DON'T CARE ABOUT MYSELF!"

"I DON'T CARE WHAT HAPPENS TO ME!"

"I JUST WANT THEM SAFE!"

The Creator remained silent.

For the first time...

He truly understood.

The burden Harris was carrying wasn't power.

It was fear.

Fear of failure.

Fear of loss.

Fear of watching everyone die.

Again.

The Question

Buddy suddenly asked:

"Then what about you?"

Silence.

Harris looked away.

The answer came quietly.

"...Unknown."

The Creator froze.

The Third Voice froze.

Buddy froze.

Because Harris genuinely didn't know.

Everyone else's future mattered.

But his own?

He had never thought about it.

The Truth

The Creator smiled sadly.

"You were afraid of the dream."

Harris lowered his head.

"...Yes."

The answer surprised everyone.

No excuses.

No denial.

Just honesty.

The Creator nodded.

"You cannot defeat Omega through anger."

"I know."

The answer came immediately.

Again...

No argument.

Because Harris already knew.

That was what made it painful.

The Second Book

The Creator finally raised his hand.

A golden map appeared.

A location.

A place hidden on their own planet.

Dangerous.

Ancient.

Forbidden.

"The Second Book is here."

Harris looked up.

The Creator smiled.

"You don't have to carry everything alone."

For the first time...

Harris cried.

Not silently.

Not quietly.

He cried openly.

Like a boy who had finally admitted he was scared.

Hospital

Slowly…

Consciousness returned.

Beep.

Beep.

Beep.

Hospital.

Harris opened his eyes.

And froze.

Everyone was there.

Koji asleep in a chair.

Lunar asleep beside the window.

Universe 1, 2, 3 and 6 nearby.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

And Harlina.

Still holding his hand.

Even while asleep.

Harris's eyes filled with tears.

"...Sorry."

Nobody heard him.

But he said it anyway.

The Escape Attempt

Hours later...

Harris woke again.

The fear returned.

The nightmare returned.

Omega's words returned.

Without thinking...

He stood up.

Opened the door.

SLAM!!

The sound echoed through the hospital.

Everyone immediately woke up.

"HARRIS!"

They rushed outside.

And saw him walking away.

Again.

The Promise

Everyone tried stopping him.

Nothing worked.

The alternate Harris versions used their powers.

Still nothing.

Harris kept moving.

Then—

"HARRIS!"

Harlina's voice echoed.

He stopped.

Everyone froze.

Tears ran down her face.

"You promised me."

Silence.

"You promised you wouldn't leave me alone."

The words pierced straight through his heart.

Harris's body trembled.

Then...

For the first time...

He cried.

"I know..."

Everyone froze.

Because they had never seen him like this.

Loss of Control

The alternate Harris versions immediately moved.

Using the opportunity.

They restrained him.

Ropes of Void Energy wrapped around him.

Then suddenly—

CRACK!!

His eyes turned red.

The ropes turned into ash.

The atmosphere changed.

Everyone stepped back.

Fear.

Pain.

Anger.

Exhaustion.

Everything exploded at once.

The Monster's Roar

Harris moved.

Universe 1 attacked.

Lost.

Universe 2 attacked.

Lost.

Universe 3 attacked.

Lost.

Universe 6 attacked.

Lost.

Even together...

They couldn't stop him.

Everyone used weapons.

Still nothing.

Then—

Harris roared.

A sound unlike anything they had ever heard.

Not a scream.

Not a shout.

A roar.

Like a wounded beast carrying the weight of entire universes.

Everyone froze.

Tears filled their eyes.

Because they finally understood.

Nobody could carry that burden alone.

Collapse

Then suddenly—

THUD!!

Harris collapsed.

Blood flowed from his mouth.

His wounds reopened completely.

The red eyes disappeared.

A weak smile returned.

"...Sorry."

Then darkness.

Recovery

Several days later...

Harris woke again.

This time...

Everyone was waiting.

Nobody had left.

Not once.

The moment he opened his eyes—

SLAP!!

The entire room froze.

Harlina had slapped him.

Universe 1 Harris dropped his drink.

Universe 3 Harris froze.

Koji blinked.

Lunar blinked.

Everyone blinked.

Harlina's Words

Tears ran down her face.

"ARE YOU A HERO NOW?!"

"HUH?!"

"IS THAT WHAT THESE POWERS MADE YOU?!"

Silence.

"You are not some machine!"

"You are not some sacrifice!"

"You are not just the Void Walker!"

Her voice shook.

"YOU ARE MY BOYFRIEND!"

Everyone froze.

Harlina pointed directly at him.

"You are our friend."

"You are family."

"So stop trying to disappear!"

The room became silent.

Then...

For the first time in days...

A real smile appeared on Harris's face.

A warm smile.

A happy smile.

The smile everyone had been waiting for.

The Stomach

Then Harris spoke.

"I am probably the most unlucky boy in this cosmos."

Everyone blinked.

"Cosmos?"

"Not multiverse?"

"Just cosmos?"

Harris nodded seriously.

Then—

GRRRRRRRRRRR...

His stomach growled.

The room exploded with laughter.

Even Harris looked offended.

"Traitor."

He glared at his stomach.

Universe 1 and Universe 3 stared in confusion.

"What is happening?"

Universe 2 Harris smiled.

"Welcome to the group."

Universe 6 nodded.

"You'll get used to it."

The Book

Food arrived.

A ridiculous amount of food.

Universe 1 Harris pointed.

"Is a party coming?"

Universe 3 nodded.

"Maybe twenty people?"

Universe 2 smiled.

"Wait."

The two versions waited.

Then watched Harris eat almost everything.

Both froze.

"..."

"..."

"WHAT?!"

The room exploded with laughter again.

The Next Journey

After eating...

Harris stretched his hand.

"The Book."

Harlina smirked.

"Good boy."

Everyone laughed.

The First Book floated into the air.

Golden light filled the room.

Then suddenly—

New pages formed.

Ancient symbols appeared.

Unknown Void Language.

Everyone stared.

Confused.

Shocked.

Unable to read a single word.

Only Harris could.

His eyes widened.

A smile appeared.

The fear.

The anger.

The sadness.

Gone.

Replaced by determination.

He looked toward everyone.

Then spoke.

"The next journey has begun."

The Book continued glowing.

And somewhere far away...

Hidden in darkness...

The Second Book waited.

END OF CHAPTER 1

TO BE CONTINUED IN CHAPTER 2:

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 2: THE LONELINESS BEFORE THE LIGHT

PART 1 – THE WARNING OF THE SECOND BOOK

The hospital room was unusually peaceful.

For the first time in many days...

No battles.

No alarms.

No monsters.

No portals.

Only silence.

Golden sunlight entered through the window.

The warm light fell across Harris's bed.

Everyone was still there.

Koji sat near the window.

Lunar sat beside him.

Universe 1 Harris.

Universe 2 Harris.

Universe 3 Harris.

Universe 6 Harris.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

And Harlina.

Nobody wanted to leave him alone anymore.

Not after everything that had happened.

Meanwhile...

Harris was staring at the First Book.

The ancient book floated before him.

The mysterious Void symbols continued moving across its pages.

Everyone noticed his focus.

"Already working?"

Koji asked.

Harris smiled.

"If Omega is preparing..."

"I can't waste time."

The room became quiet.

Even after everything...

Even after nearly dying...

Even after collapsing multiple times...

His first thought was still everyone else's safety.

The First Book slowly opened.

Ancient symbols appeared.

The others looked at the pages.

Nothing.

Just strange symbols.

None of them could understand a single word.

Only Harris.

And Buddy.

Inside his mind...

Buddy crossed his arms.

"Ready?"

Harris nodded.

"As ready as possible."

The Suit's eyes glowed.

The symbols immediately became understandable.

Ancient Void Language.

Thousands of years old.

Words that should never have existed.

Words left behind for the Void Walker.

The pages slowly turned.

Everyone watched curiously.

"What does it say?"

Lina asked.

Harris smiled.

"A lot of things."

"Helpful things."

"What kind?"

Mika asked.

Harris continued reading.

His smile slowly grew.

Methods for controlling Void Energy.

Ancient combat techniques.

Lost knowledge.

Forgotten history.

Even Buddy looked impressed.

"Huh."

"Interesting."

The pages turned again.

Suddenly...

Something changed.

The atmosphere inside the room became heavier.

Harris frowned.

Buddy immediately noticed.

"What happened?"

No answer.

Harris continued reading.

The next page appeared.

Then another.

And another.

His smile slowly disappeared.

Everyone noticed.

Koji stood up.

"Harris?"

Still no answer.

The words on the page became darker.

More dangerous.

Almost forbidden.

Even Buddy became uncomfortable.

"Harris..."

"Stop reading."

The Suit rarely sounded worried.

That alone frightened Harris.

But he continued.

One final page appeared.

A hidden page.

A page that hadn't existed before.

The moment he read the first sentence—

His eyes widened.

The book suddenly released a violent pulse.

BOOM!!

The room shook.

Everyone jumped.

The First Book slammed shut.

"HARRIS!"

Before anyone could react—

THUD!!

Harris collapsed onto the floor.

The book fell beside him.

The entire room froze.

"HARRIS!!"

Everyone rushed forward.

Harlina reached him first.

"HARRIS!"

No response.

His eyes were closed.

His body wasn't moving.

The hospital alarms started ringing.

Doctors rushed toward the room.

Everyone panicked.

The alternate Harris versions immediately checked him.

Universe 6 Harris frowned.

"He's alive."

Universe 2 Harris sighed with relief.

"But unconscious."

The room remained silent.

Nobody understood what had happened.

Nobody except one person.

The Creator.

Inside Consciousness

Darkness.

Then light.

Then endless Void.

Harris slowly opened his eyes.

He immediately recognized the place.

The Creator.

Standing before him.

Waiting.

Harris sighed.

"So I passed out again."

The Creator smiled.

"Again."

Harris scratched his head.

"Sorry."

The Creator laughed softly.

Even now...

The boy apologized for things beyond his control.

Then the Creator's expression became serious.

"The Second Book."

Immediately Harris focused.

No jokes.

No smiles.

Only attention.

The Creator slowly raised his hand.

An image appeared.

A location.

A place hidden somewhere on their own world.

Ancient mountains.

Ruins.

Dark skies.

Something felt wrong about it.

Very wrong.

Harris noticed instantly.

"What is it?"

The Creator remained silent.

For a moment.

Then finally answered.

"The place itself."

"...is the danger."

Harris frowned.

"What do you mean?"

The Creator slowly spoke.

"The location of the Second Book is different."

"Different from the First."

"Different from the Void Throne."

"Different from anything you have ever seen."

The image expanded.

The mountains became clearer.

The ruins became clearer.

And then…

Something impossible appeared.

Nothing.

No Void Energy.

No Aura.

No Power.

Nothing.

Harris froze.

The Creator nodded.

"You understand."

Harris slowly looked up.

"...Void Powers."

The Creator nodded.

"They disappear."

The entire world around them became silent.

"The moment you enter that place..."

"The Void becomes useless."

"The power of the Void Walker becomes useless."

"The powers of your friends become useless."

"The powers of the alternate Harrises become useless."

"Everything."

Silence.

The Creator waited.

Expecting shock.

Fear.

Worry.

Instead...

Harris smiled.

A very small smile.

The Creator blinked.

"That's your reaction?"

Harris laughed softly.

"Actually..."

"That's worse."

The Creator nodded.

"Exactly."

Then Harris looked down.

His smile disappeared.

The Creator immediately noticed.

Because Harris wasn't thinking about himself.

Not even for one second.

His first thought was somewhere else.

His friends.

Again.

"So..."

Harris slowly spoke.

"That place is dangerous for them."

The Creator remained silent.

Then nodded.

"Yes."

Harris lowered his head.

The Creator sighed.

Even now.

Even after everything.

The boy's first concern wasn't his survival.

It was theirs.

Then the Creator spoke again.

"This time..."

"You are not allowed to refuse them."

Harris froze.

The Creator continued.

"No solo mission."

"No disappearing."

"No sacrificing yourself."

"No pretending everything is fine."

Silence.

Then the Creator smiled.

"You remember the condition."

Immediately Harris remembered.

Buddy's condition.

The promise.

Never abandon his friends.

Never carry everything alone.

The very thing he kept trying to do.

The Creator crossed his arms.

"So?"

Harris looked away.

For a few seconds.

Then smiled.

A genuine smile.

"...Yeah."

The Creator blinked.

"...Yeah?"

Harris nodded.

"You're right."

For the first time...

The Creator looked genuinely surprised.

No argument.

No stubbornness.

No attempt to escape.

Just acceptance.

The Creator smiled.

Maybe...

Just maybe...

The boy was finally learning.

Return

Light returned.

The hospital room appeared again.

Voices.

Concern.

Worry.

Harris slowly opened his eyes.

Immediately—

"HARRIS!"

Everyone surrounded him.

The room exploded with relief.

Harlina nearly hit him again.

"Don't do that!"

"Again!"

"Ever!"

Harris laughed weakly.

"Sorry."

Everyone groaned.

Of course he apologized.

Universe 2 Harris shook his head.

"You seriously need a new word."

Universe 6 Harris nodded.

"Agreed."

The room slowly calmed.

Then Harris sat up.

Everyone became serious.

"I found information."

Instant silence.

Everyone leaned closer.

"What information?"

Koji asked.

Harris looked toward the window.

"The Second Book."

Everyone froze.

"It won't be easy."

"Actually..."

"It might be the hardest place we've ever entered."

The room became silent.

Before Harris could continue—

Universe 3 Harris accidentally spoke.

"The place where Void Powers disappear?"

Silence.

Harris slowly turned.

Universe 3 Harris froze.

"...Oops."

Everyone turned toward him.

Then toward Harris.

Then toward Universe 1.

Then toward Universe 2.

Then toward Universe 6.

The four versions immediately looked away.

Very suspiciously.

Harris narrowed his eyes.

"You knew?"

Nobody answered.

"You all knew."

Still silence.

Then Harris sighed.

"The Third Voice."

The four versions nodded.

Harris immediately understood everything.

The Third Voice had informed them.

And now...

Everyone would be watching him.

Again.

The room slowly became awkward.

Meanwhile...

Inside his mind...

The Third Voice nervously looked away.

"I may have informed them."

"You absolutely informed them."

Buddy replied.

The Creator laughed.

For once...

Even Harris smiled.

He already knew exactly what was happening.

Everyone was preparing for the possibility...

That he would try to run away again.

And honestly?

They were right to worry.

Harris looked toward the window.

Toward the endless blue sky.

A peaceful smile appeared.

Far away...

The Second Book waited.

And somewhere deep inside...

A journey much more dangerous than any battle was about to begin.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 2: THE LONELINESS BEFORE THE LIGHT

PART 2 – THE HEARTBREAK

Night slowly arrived.

The golden sunlight disappeared.

Darkness covered the town.

The hospital became quieter.

For the first time in hours...

Harris wasn't reading.

He wasn't training.

He wasn't planning.

He wasn't fighting.

He was simply sitting on the hospital bed.

And being watched.

By everyone.

Koji.

Lunar.

Universe 1 Harris.

Universe 2 Harris.

Universe 3 Harris.

Universe 6 Harris.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

And Harlina.

Nobody left.

Not even for a minute.

The room was so quiet that Harris finally couldn't take it anymore.

He slowly looked around.

Everyone was staring directly at him.

Silence.

More silence.

Even more silence.

Finally—

"...Why are you all looking at me like some special creature?"

The room exploded with laughter.

Universe 2 Harris pointed at him.

"Because you ARE a special creature."

Universe 6 Harris nodded.

"The rarest species in existence."

Universe 1 Harris added:

"An idiot."

Everyone laughed again.

Even Harris smiled.

A small smile.

One that made everyone happy.

Because after the previous days...

Seeing him smile felt like a victory.

Koji stood up.

"Okay."

"We should leave now."

Everyone immediately understood.

Sleep.

Rest.

Recovery.

The doctors had already complained enough.

Harris looked around.

"You all can go home."

Nobody moved.

"..."

"..."

"..."

The entire room became awkward.

Harris sighed.

"I won't escape."

Nobody believed him.

The silence answered for them.

Harris narrowed his eyes.

"Seriously."

Still silence.

Universe 3 Harris looked away.

Universe 6 Harris looked away.

Koji looked away.

Even Lunar looked away.

Harris stared at them.

"Wow."

"You all trust me so much."

The room laughed.

Finally everyone stood up.

One by one.

Slowly leaving the room.

At least...

That's what Harris thought.

The moment the door closed—

Nobody left.

Every single person remained outside.

Waiting.

Watching.

Guarding.

Because they knew Harris.

Far too well.

Inside the room...

Only two people remained.

Harris.

And Harlina.

The room suddenly felt different.

Quieter.

Warmer.

For a few seconds neither spoke.

Just silence.

A peaceful silence.

Harris looked toward her.

She looked tired.

The past few days had been difficult for everyone.

Especially her.

Because every time Harris got hurt…

She got hurt too.

He slowly smiled.

Then stood up.

"Harris?"

No answer.

He simply walked toward her.

One step.

Then another.

And another.

Until he stood directly in front of her.

Harlina blinked.

Confused.

Then Harris slowly opened his arms.

No words.

No explanations.

Just a simple request.

A hug.

The thing he rarely asked for.

The thing he almost never needed.

The thing he wanted tonight.

For a moment...

Harlina froze.

She remembered the doctors.

His injuries.

His condition.

His recent reckless behavior.

And without thinking—

She pushed him back.

"No."

Harris froze.

"..."

"..."

Then—

SLAP!

The sound echoed inside the room.

Not hard.

Not out of hatred.

But enough.

Enough to stop him.

"Sleep."

Harlina pointed at the bed.

"You need rest."

"No more moving."

"No more injuries."

"No more acting tough."

Harris remained frozen.

The room became silent.

Harlina thought he understood.

She thought she was helping.

She thought she was protecting him.

So she turned away.

And walked toward the door.

"Good night."

The door closed.

Leaving Harris alone.

Completely alone.

For the first time all day.

Silence filled the room.

He slowly touched his cheek.

The place where she slapped him.

Not because it hurt.

The slap didn't hurt.

The refusal did.

His eyes lowered.

The room suddenly felt colder.

Much colder.

Slowly...

He returned to bed.

Sat down.

And stared at the ceiling.

Minutes passed.

Then more minutes.

Then even more.

Sleep never came.

Only thoughts.

Thoughts he didn't want.

Thoughts he had buried years ago.

"What am I doing..."

His voice was barely audible.

No answer came.

The room remained silent.

Eventually...

His eyes closed.

And sleep finally arrived.

But not peace.

A dream.

No monsters.

No Omega Void Emperor.

No destroyed universes.

No battles.

No blood.

Nothing.

Only one moment.

The hospital room.

The same room.

The same night.

The same scene.

Harris opening his arms.

And Harlina stepping back.

"No."

Again.

The scene repeated.

Again.

"No."

Again.

"No."

Again.

And again.

And again.

And again.

Thousands of times.

The word slowly transformed.

Becoming something else.

Something older.

Something deeper.

A voice from long ago.

A voice from childhood.

"Go away."

The dream changed.

Darkness appeared.

A small boy stood alone.

No friends.

No family.

No Harlina.

No Koji.

Nobody.

Only loneliness.

The loneliness he thought had disappeared forever.

The loneliness that existed before Harlina entered his life.

The loneliness he never wanted to feel again.

The loneliness he feared more than death.

The dream continued.

The hospital room.

The slap.

The refusal.

The lonely child.

Again.

And again.

And again.

Until reality and dream became one.

A single tear rolled down his face.

Then another.

Then another.

No sound.

No crying.

Just tears.

Quietly falling.

As he slept.

Outside the room...

Nobody noticed.

Nobody knew.

Nobody realized what had happened.

Not yet.

Because for the first time since meeting Harlina years ago...

The lonely boy from the past had started returning.

And nobody saw it happen.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 2: THE LONELINESS BEFORE THE LIGHT

PART 3 – THE BOY WHO DISAPPEARED

Morning arrived.

Sunlight entered through the hospital window.

Birds could be heard outside.

The town was peaceful.

Everything looked normal.

But something was wrong.

Very wrong.

Harris was already awake.

Sitting beside the window.

Looking outside.

Silent.

The First Book rested on the table nearby.

Usually he would already be reading.

Usually he would be smiling.

Usually he would be talking.

Today...

Nothing.

The door opened.

Koji entered first.

"Good morning."

No reply.

Koji paused.

Then smiled awkwardly.

"Not a morning person today?"

No reply.

Harris didn't even turn around.

Koji's smile slowly disappeared.

Then the others entered.

Lunar.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 6.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

And finally...

Harlina.

The moment Harris saw her—

His eyes immediately moved away.

Everyone noticed.

The atmosphere changed.

"Harris?"

Still nothing.

Silence.

A strange silence.

A silence that felt wrong.

Very wrong.

Breakfast

A nurse brought breakfast.

Everyone sighed in relief.

Food usually solved half of Harris's problems.

The tray was placed in front of him.

Harris looked at it.

Then looked away.

Everyone froze.

"Eat."

Koji said.

Nothing.

Universe 2 Harris crossed his arms.

"You nearly died again."

"Eat."

Nothing.

Harlina slowly picked up the spoon.

Everyone immediately became hopeful.

If anyone could convince him—

It was her.

She sat beside him.

"Harris."

Still silence.

"Harris."

Nothing.

She gently moved the spoon toward him.

"Just one bite."

Harris slowly pushed her hand away.

The spoon nearly fell.

Everyone froze.

Because Harris had never done that before.

Never.

Not to Harlina.

Not once.

Without a word…

He stood up.

Walked back to bed.

Turned away from everyone.

And closed his eyes.

Pretending to sleep.

The room became silent.

Nobody knew what to say.

The Return of Loneliness

Hours passed.

Nobody left.

Nobody wanted to leave.

But Harris never spoke.

Not once.

Inside his mind...

The dream continued.

The hospital room.

The rejection.

The slap.

The lonely child.

Again.

Again.

Again.

Every memory he thought had disappeared was returning.

The loneliness before Harlina.

Before friendship.

Before hope.

Before everything.

A darkness he had escaped years ago.

And now...

It was returning.

Other Versions Try

Later.

Harris woke again.

Still silent.

Universe 1 Harris approached.

"Hey."

Nothing.

"I know you're listening."

Nothing.

Universe 3 stepped forward.

"We've all been through things."

Nothing.

Universe 6 tried.

"You don't have to handle it alone."

Nothing.

Universe 2 sighed.

"We're literally you."

Still nothing.

For the first time...

Even the alternate Harris versions didn't know what to do.

Evening

The sun slowly disappeared.

Night approached once again.

The room had become heavy.

Nobody was laughing anymore.

Nobody was smiling.

Everyone felt it.

Something was breaking.

And they didn't know how to stop it.

Then Harlina stood up.

Without saying a word.

She left the room.

A few minutes later...

She returned carrying coffee.

Enough for everyone.

One by one she handed cups to the group.

Then finally...

She stood in front of Harris.

A fresh cup.

Still warm.

"Harris."

No response.

She held it closer.

"I made this myself."

Silence.

"Harris."

Slowly…

Harris turned.

Everyone became hopeful.

Finally.

Maybe.

Just maybe.

Then—

CRASH!!

The coffee cup hit the floor.

Coffee spilled everywhere.

The cup shattered.

The entire room froze.

Nobody moved.

Nobody breathed.

Harlina stared at the broken cup.

Then—

SLAP!!

The sound echoed through the room.

Nobody stopped her.

Nobody expected what happened next.

Because Harris didn't react.

At all.

He simply accepted it.

Without looking at her.

Without defending himself.

Without speaking.

As if he deserved it.

And that frightened everyone.

Far more than the coffee.

Far more than the slap.

Because this wasn't Harris.

This wasn't the boy who always smiled.

This wasn't the boy who fought against impossible odds.

This wasn't the boy who protected universes.

This was someone else.

Someone broken.

The Sentence

Harlina grabbed his shirt.

"HARRIS!"

Still silence.

"HARRIS LOOK AT ME!"

Slowly...

He finally raised his head.

His eyes looked empty.

Completely empty.

Then he spoke.

Very quietly.

Almost like a whisper.

"I want to die now."

Silence.

The world stopped.

Nobody moved.

Nobody breathed.

Nobody could believe what they heard.

The sentence echoed inside the room.

Again.

Again.

Again.

"I want to die now."

Coming from Harris.

The boy who never cared about himself.

The boy who always kept moving.

The boy who always found hope.

The boy who always saved everyone.

Everyone froze.

Harlina froze.

Koji froze.

Lunar froze.

The alternate Harris versions froze.

Even inside Harris's mind—

The Creator froze.

The Third Voice froze.

Buddy froze.

Because they had never heard those words from him.

Not once.

Breaking Point

"HARRIS!"

SLAP!!

Another slap.

Then another.

Then another.

Harlina was crying now.

"HARRIS!"

SLAP!!

"HARRIS!"

SLAP!!

"HARRIS!"

But Harris never reacted.

He simply accepted every slap.

Like punishment.

Like someone who had already given up.

Then the Creator appeared inside his mind.

"Harris."

No answer.

Third Voice spoke.

"Harris."

No answer.

Buddy stepped forward.

"Kid."

Nothing.

For the first time...

He ignored all three.

Completely.

Realization

The alternate Harris versions slowly exchanged looks.

Universe 1 Harris frowned.

Universe 2 lowered his head.

Universe 3 clenched his fists.

Universe 6 looked toward the floor.

They understood something.

This wasn't anger.

This wasn't stubbornness.

This wasn't pride.

This was depression.

Real depression.

The dangerous kind.

The kind that slowly erased people.

The kind that made them disappear while still alive.

Universe 6 finally stood up.

"Koji."

"Outside."

Koji immediately followed.

Lunar followed too.

The hospital door closed.

The four alternate Harris versions looked serious.

More serious than ever before.

Universe 2 spoke first.

"Something happened."

Universe 1 nodded.

"Last night."

Universe 3 crossed his arms.

"This didn't start today."

Universe 6 finally said the words.

"He's disappearing."

Koji froze.

Lunar froze.

"What?"

Universe 6 looked directly at them.

"Mentally."

"He's disappearing from reality."

Silence.

The words sent chills through everyone.

Because deep down...

They knew it was true.

The Truth Begins

Universe 2 looked toward the room.

Toward Harris.

Then quietly asked:

"Did somebody hurt him?"

Silence.

Nobody answered.

Because nobody knew.

Yet.

And somewhere inside the room...

The lonely boy continued falling deeper into darkness.

Without anyone realizing how far he had already fallen.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 2: THE LONELINESS BEFORE THE LIGHT

PART 4 – GOODBYE LETTER

The hospital corridor felt colder than usual.

Outside Harris's room...

Koji.

Lunar.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 6.

All stood silently.

Nobody wanted to believe what they had just witnessed.

But they couldn't deny it anymore.

Something was terribly wrong.

The Question

Universe 2 Harris finally broke the silence.

"Did anyone hurt him mentally?"

No answer came.

Everyone looked at each other.

Then...

Koji slowly turned toward Harlina.

Immediately the others understood.

Harlina froze.

"Why are you looking at me?"

Koji spoke gently.

"What happened last night?"

Silence.

Everyone waited.

Harlina lowered her head.

Then slowly explained everything.

The room.

The hug.

The refusal.

The slap.

Silence.

Nobody interrupted.

Nobody judged.

They simply listened.

When she finished...

Koji sighed.

Universe 6 closed his eyes.

Universe 3 looked away.

Universe 1 rubbed his forehead.

Universe 2 stared at the floor.

Harlina's voice shook.

"I thought I was helping him."

Koji nodded.

"You were."

Everyone looked toward him.

"But that's not the real problem."

Silence.

Koji suddenly froze.

His eyes widened.

Everyone immediately noticed.

"Koji?"

Lunar asked.

Koji looked terrified.

Genuinely terrified.

Then slowly whispered—

"...No."

The group froze.

"...No..."

"No..."

Harlina grabbed his shoulder.

"WHAT?"

Koji looked at all of them.

Then spoke words that shattered the room.

"Yesterday was his birthday."

Silence.

Nobody moved.

Nobody breathed.

Nobody even blinked.

The sentence echoed through the hallway.

Yesterday.

Was.

His.

Birthday.

And everyone forgot.

The Realization

Harlina's face went pale.

Lina froze.

Mika covered her mouth.

Reku stepped backward.

Roku lowered his head.

Lunar looked completely shocked.

Even the alternate Harris versions froze.

Because now everything made sense.

The loneliness.

The silence.

The refusal.

The depression.

The sentence.

"I want to die now."

The forgotten birthday wasn't the only reason.

But it had become the final crack.

The final push.

The final confirmation of every fear he already had.

That maybe...

Nobody truly saw him anymore.

Only the Void Walker.

Not Harris.

Harlina Breaks

Tears filled Harlina's eyes.

Immediately.

She remembered everything.

The hug.

The look in his eyes.

The disappointment.

The silence afterward.

And now...

His birthday.

The day she always remembered.

The day she promised herself she would never forget.

Forgotten.

Her legs gave out.

She fell to her knees.

"Harris..."

The tears wouldn't stop.

"Harris..."

The others couldn't even comfort her.

Because they felt the same guilt.

The same regret.

The same pain.

Inside The Room

Meanwhile...

Harris sat alone.

Looking outside.

Watching the night sky.

The city lights.

The stars.

Everything felt distant.

Like another world.

Like another life.

The sounds outside the room no longer mattered.

The voices no longer mattered.

Nothing mattered.

For the first time in years...

The loneliness felt familiar.

Comfortable.

Safe.

That Night

Hours passed.

Nobody slept.

Nobody left.

Nobody even spoke much.

The guilt was too heavy.

Inside the room...

Harris finally lay down.

But sleep never came.

Only thoughts.

Thoughts he couldn't stop.

The hug.

The slap.

The birthday.

The forgotten promises.

The feeling of being watched.

The feeling of being treated differently.

The feeling that everyone only cared when he got hurt.

The feeling that everyone only needed him when danger appeared.

A weapon.

A shield.

A Void Walker.

But not Harris.

Slowly…

He sat up.

Looked around the dark room.

Everyone had finally gone home.

Or at least...

That's what he thought.

The hallway was quiet.

No footsteps.

No voices.

Nothing.

For the first time all day...

He smiled.

Not a happy smile.

A tired smile.

The Letter

He reached for a piece of paper.

A pen.

And began writing.

Slowly.

Carefully.

Every word mattered.

The paper filled with sentences.

A thank you.

An apology.

A goodbye.

Hours passed.

The letter was finished.

He stared at it.

For a long time.

Then folded it.

And placed it on the table.

Where everyone would find it.

The Escape

A familiar Void Portal appeared.

Silent.

Dark.

Beautiful.

Harris stood up.

One last look at the room.

One last look at the place everyone fought to keep him alive.

Then he stepped forward.

The portal swallowed him.

And vanished.

The Training World

The familiar world appeared.

The secret training place.

The place nobody knew about.

The place connected to one of his worst memories.

Yet somehow...

It felt peaceful.

The endless sky stretched above him.

The wind moved quietly.

No people.

No responsibilities.

No expectations.

No pain.

Just silence.

Harris lay down on the grass.

And looked toward the stars.

A genuine smile appeared.

"I missed this."

For the first time in days...

He felt calm.

Not happy.

Not healed.

Just calm.

The Dangerous Change

Inside his mind...

The Creator appeared.

The Third Voice appeared.

Buddy appeared.

All three were watching him.

Concerned.

Very concerned.

Because they noticed something terrifying.

Harris wasn't angry anymore.

He wasn't sad anymore.

He wasn't even crying anymore.

He had accepted it.

Accepted being alone.

Accepted losing everyone.

Accepted loneliness.

The Creator slowly spoke.

"Harris."

No answer.

"Harris."

Still no answer.

The boy simply watched the stars.

Smiling.

Buddy finally stepped forward.

"Kid."

Nothing.

The Third Voice frowned.

"He isn't listening."

The Creator's expression darkened.

Because now he understood.

This wasn't a temporary emotional breakdown.

This was a return.

A return to the lonely boy that existed before Harlina.

Before friendship.

Before hope.

The Letter Found

Back at the hospital...

Morning arrived.

The first person entering the room was Koji.

Then Lunar.

Then everyone else.

The bed was empty.

Immediately panic spread.

"HARRIS?!"

Then Koji noticed the paper.

The letter.

His hands trembled.

Slowly...

He opened it.

And began reading.

The room fell silent.

The words hit everyone like a blade.

A thank you.

For everything.

An apology.

For causing trouble.

And finally...

A goodbye.

Nobody could speak.

Nobody could move.

Harlina started crying immediately.

The Search

The search began.

The entire town.

Nearby forests.

Mountains.

Ancient ruins.

Every possible place.

Nothing.

Universe 1 Harris finally stopped everyone.

"We won't find him."

Silence.

Everyone stared at him.

"Why?"

Universe 6 answered.

"Because he's different."

The room froze.

Universe 2 continued.

"We can sense each other's energy."

Universe 3 nodded.

"But not his."

"He hides it completely."

"And we don't know where he goes when he's hurt."

Silence.

The explanation made sense.

And that made it worse.

Because nobody knew where Harris was.

The Past

Later...

The Creator.

The Third Voice.

And Buddy appeared before the alternate Harris versions.

All three looked serious.

Very serious.

Universe 5 and 7 had not appeared yet.

Only Universe 1, 2, 3, and 6 were present.

"We need to understand his mindset."

The Creator spoke.

The versions nodded.

Then Universe 6 asked:

"What was Harris like before Harlina?"

Silence.

Everyone looked toward Koji.

Only Koji knew.

Koji slowly lowered his head.

And began speaking.

The childhood.

The loneliness.

The isolation.

The pain.

The years before friendship.

The years before light.

The years before Harlina entered his life.

The years when Harris believed nobody needed him.

Nobody wanted him.

Nobody cared.

When Koji finished…

Nobody could speak.

Not even the Creator.

Not even Buddy.

Not even the Third Voice.

Because they finally understood.

The terrifying truth.

The Harris they knew...

The smiling Harris.

The protective Harris.

The cheerful Harris.

Wasn't the original version.

The lonely child was.

And now...

That child had returned.

The Final Revelation

The Third Voice finally spoke.

A sentence nobody wanted to hear.

"Harris currently sees everyone as enemies."

Silence.

Everyone froze.

Even Harlina.

The words felt impossible.

But they knew it was true.

Because of the letter.

Because of the silence.

Because of the way he looked at them.

Then suddenly...

Harlina stood up.

Tears still in her eyes.

But determination returning.

"No."

Everyone looked at her.

"He'll go for the Second Book."

Silence.

"He won't ignore that."

"He can't."

Slowly...

Hope returned.

A small hope.

But enough.

Enough to keep searching.

Meanwhile...

Far away.

Under an endless sky.

Harris smiled peacefully.

Completely unaware...

That everyone was desperately trying to bring him home.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 2: THE LONELINESS BEFORE THE LIGHT

PART 5 – THE VOID QUEEN AND THE SECOND BOOK

The training world remained silent.

No voices.

No battles.

No responsibilities.

Only endless skies.

Only wind.

Only loneliness.

And for the first time in years...

Harris felt comfortable inside it.

He sat beneath a giant stone cliff.

Looking toward the horizon.

Hours passed.

Then more hours.

Still he didn't move.

Still he didn't care.

Back in town...

Everyone was searching.

Koji.

Lunar.

Harlina.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 6.

Nobody stopped.

Nobody rested.

But they couldn't find him.

Meanwhile...

Inside Harris's consciousness.

The Creator.

The Third Voice.

And Buddy.

Were desperately trying to understand what to do.

Because nothing worked.

The Creator finally stepped forward.

"Harris."

No response.

"Harris."

Nothing.

The boy continued looking at the sky.

The Third Voice frowned.

"This is bad."

Buddy nodded.

"Worse than bad."

The Creator sighed.

Then made a decision.

A risky one.

A very risky one.

The Lie

The Creator suddenly spoke.

"Your friends are searching for the Second Book alone."

Silence.

For a moment...

They thought it worked.

Then Harris answered.

Without even looking at them.

"I have no friends."

Silence.

The Creator froze.

The Third Voice froze.

Buddy froze.

That answer hurt more than any attack.

The boy who once crossed universes for his friends...

Now said he had none.

The Creator lowered his head.

For the first time...

He didn't know what to say.

Then Harris smiled.

A calm smile.

"I like this loneliness."

The words echoed through the void.

Nobody spoke.

Because those words frightened them.

More than Omega.

More than war.

More than destruction.

Because Harris truly meant them.

The Last Hope

The Creator finally understood.

Logic wouldn't save him.

Reason wouldn't save him.

Even friendship wouldn't reach him.

They needed something else.

Hope.

A reason to move forward.

Suddenly...

A strange presence appeared.

A new voice.

A familiar voice.

Yet not familiar.

The Creator immediately recognized it.

His eyes widened.

"The Void Queen…"

The Third Voice turned.

Buddy froze.

Even they were shocked.

A beautiful figure appeared.

White hair.

Gentle eyes.

A warm smile.

The figure resembled Harlina.

Yet felt older.

Ancient.

Almost divine.

The Void Queen slowly approached.

Then looked directly at Harris.

For the first time...

His attention moved away from the sky.

He blinked.

Then asked—

"Do I know you?"

Silence.

The Creator froze.

The Third Voice froze.

Buddy froze.

The question terrified them.

Because Harris would never ask that.

Never.

Not to someone who looked like Harlina.

The loneliness had gone that far.

The Void Queen simply smiled.

"No."

"Not yet."

Her voice was gentle.

"I need your help."

Harris tilted his head.

"What do I get in return?"

The Creator nearly fainted.

The Third Voice looked horrified.

Buddy covered his face.

The Void Queen smiled softly.

"Happiness."

Silence.

For the first time...

Something changed in Harris's eyes.

A tiny reaction.

Almost invisible.

Then he nodded.

"Okay."

Everyone froze.

Just like that.

No argument.

No questions.

Then Harris stood up.

"What help?"

The Void Queen pointed forward.

"The Second Book."

Immediately Harris smiled.

"Simple."

"Where?"

The Void Queen revealed the location.

A distant region.

Ancient ruins.

A place where Void Power vanished.

Harris nodded.

Then suddenly disappeared.

The Journey Begins

His eyes opened.

Reality returned.

The training world.

The wind.

The sky.

Everything returned.

Without hesitation...

A Void Portal opened.

The portal couldn't reach the exact location.

The power-suppressing region interfered.

But it was close enough.

Harris stepped through.

And began walking.

Alone.

Meanwhile

The others continued searching.

Then suddenly—

Universe 6 stopped.

Everyone looked toward him.

"What happened?"

Koji asked.

Universe 6 slowly looked ahead.

A smile appeared.

"I felt something."

Everyone froze.

Universe 2's eyes widened.

"No way..."

Universe 3 nodded.

"He's nearby."

Instantly everyone became excited.

For the first time since the disappearance...

They had hope.

The Hidden Shadow

Far ahead...

Harris suddenly froze.

He sensed familiar energies.

Immediately.

His expression changed.

"They found me."

Without hesitation...

He jumped behind a massive bush.

Like a criminal avoiding capture.

Like a child avoiding parents.

The sight would have been hilarious.

If it wasn't so tragic.

He slowly peeked through the leaves.

And saw them.

Everyone.

Searching.

Calling his name.

Looking worried.

Looking exhausted.

Looking heartbroken.

His expression hardened.

He quietly turned away.

And continued toward the Second Book.

The Barrier

A few minutes later...

The group finally sensed him again.

"HARRIS!"

Harlina shouted.

The others rushed forward.

They finally found him.

For a moment...

Everyone smiled.

Relief filled the air.

Then Harris turned.

His eyes were cold.

The smiles disappeared.

A Void Barrier erupted from the ground.

BOOOOOOM!!

The massive wall surrounded everyone.

Koji.

Lunar.

Harlina.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 6.

All trapped.

Everyone froze.

Then Harris spoke.

A sentence that shattered their hearts.

"Don't touch me again."

Silence.

"Don't act like you care."

Nobody moved.

Nobody spoke.

Harlina's eyes widened.

The words hurt more than any weapon.

The Strongest Harris

The four alternate Harris versions immediately attacked the barrier.

BOOM!!

Nothing.

BOOM!!

Nothing.

BOOM!!

Still nothing.

The barrier didn't even scratch.

For the first time...

They understood something.

Why he was different.

Why he was stronger.

Why even Omega feared him.

The gap between Harris and the other versions...

Was enormous.

And before anyone could react—

A Void Portal opened above the battlefield.

Two figures emerged.

New Harris variants.

More dangerous.

More powerful.

Controlled by Omega Void Emperor.

The two immediately attacked.

Without speaking.

Without hesitation.

Without mercy.

Everyone inside the barrier screamed.

"HARRIS!"

But Harris simply smiled.

A cold smile.

Then raised his hand.

The Eternal Arrow appeared.

The sky itself trembled.

Universe 1 froze.

Universe 2 froze.

Universe 3 froze.

Universe 6 froze.

Because they recognized that attack.

And knew exactly what it could do.

The two enemy versions rushed forward.

Harris looked at them calmly.

Then spoke.

"So..."

"Goodbye."

The Eternal Arrow transformed.

A larger form.

A deadlier form.

An Ultimate Arrow.

The very air began breaking apart.

The enemy versions finally realized the danger.

Too late.

The attack launched.

A beam of light crossed the battlefield.

BOOOOOOOOOOM!!

The explosion illuminated the entire horizon.

The two enemy versions crashed to the ground.

Their control gems shattered instantly.

Omega's influence vanished.

The battle ended in seconds.

Everyone inside the barrier stood speechless.

Because Harris never even looked excited.

He simply walked toward the fallen versions.

Healed them.

Apologized for the injuries.

Then gently placed them inside the barrier.

The newly freed versions looked confused.

Shocked.

And terrified.

Because the person they attacked...

Had just saved them.

The journey toward the Second Book had truly begun.

And nobody realized...

The greatest battle wasn't against Omega.

It was against the darkness inside Harris himself.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 2: THE LONELINESS BEFORE THE LIGHT

PART 6 – THE SECOND BOOK AND THE RETURN OF HARRIS

The battlefield fell silent.

Smoke slowly disappeared.

The two newly freed Harris versions sat on the ground.

Confused.

Injured.

Trying to understand what had happened.

Inside the barrier...

Everyone was staring at Harris.

Not the Void Walker.

Not the strongest warrior.

Just Harris.

The boy who was slowly breaking apart.

New Allies

The two freed versions slowly stood up.

One looked around.

The other looked directly at Harris.

"You..."

"Why did you save us?"

Harris didn't even turn around.

He simply continued walking toward the distant ruins.

Then casually replied.

"Because killing you would've been pointless."

The two versions froze.

The answer sounded so simple.

Yet none of them had heard such words in years.

They had expected hatred.

Punishment.

Revenge.

Instead...

They received mercy.

The first version slowly spoke.

"I am Harris from Universe 5."

The second nodded.

"And I'm Harris from Universe 7."

Inside the barrier...

Universe 1 smiled.

Universe 2 laughed.

Universe 3 waved.

Universe 6 crossed his arms proudly.

"Welcome to the group."

The two newcomers looked completely confused.

"A group?"

Universe 2 pointed toward Harris.

"Trust us."

"Your confusion will get worse."

For the first time in years...

Universe 5 and Universe 7 laughed.

The Gate of the Second Book

Far ahead...

The ancient ruins appeared.

Massive stone pillars.

Ancient broken walls.

A gigantic black gate.

The atmosphere felt wrong.

Heavy.

Ancient.

Dangerous.

Harris approached alone.

The moment he crossed the boundary—

His Void Aura vanished.

Instantly.

No power.

No Void energy.

Nothing.

The Creator's warning had been true.

Even Buddy became silent.

The Void Walker had become a normal human.

Yet…

Harris continued walking.

Without fear.

Without hesitation.

The giant gate slowly opened.

BOOOOOOM.

The sound echoed through the mountains.

Then two colossal monsters emerged.

Ancient guardians.

Protectors of the Second Book.

The creatures roared.

The ground trembled.

Inside the barrier...

Everyone panicked.

"HARRIS!"

He didn't even look back.

The monsters charged.

And the battle began.

A Human Against Monsters

No Void powers.

No special abilities.

No divine attacks.

Only Harris.

The first monster swung its giant claw.

Harris barely dodged.

The attack shattered a mountain behind him.

Dust filled the air.

The second monster attacked immediately.

Its tail struck him directly.

BOOM!!

Harris was thrown through multiple rocks.

Blood appeared.

His injuries reopened.

Still...

He stood up.

Still smiling.

The monsters roared again.

Harris wiped the blood from his mouth.

Then laughed.

"Now this is training."

Everyone inside the barrier nearly died from stress.

The Second Book

The battle continued.

Minutes passed.

More injuries.

More blood.

More pain.

Yet Harris kept moving.

Kept fighting.

Kept standing.

Eventually...

He reached the center of the ruins.

There it was.

The Second Book.

Floating above an ancient altar.

The moment he touched it—

The ruins shook violently.

The monsters entered a frenzy.

ROOOOOOOOAR!!

Their attacks became faster.

Stronger.

Deadlier.

Harris immediately turned.

And ran.

For once...

Actually ran.

The giant monsters chased him through the ruins.

Destroying everything in their path.

The Fall

One monster finally caught him.

BOOOOOOM!!

Its attack hit directly.

Harris was launched through the air.

The Second Book remained tightly held in his hands.

His body crashed into a massive rock formation.

CRASH!!

Blood covered the stone.

The book remained safe.

But Harris...

Stopped moving.

Inside the barrier...

Everyone screamed.

"HARRIS!"

"HARRIS!"

"HARRIS!"

For the first time...

The barrier cracked.

A tiny crack.

The six Harris versions noticed immediately.

Universe 6 shouted.

"Again!"

BOOOOM!!

The six versions attacked together.

Another crack appeared.

The Truth Finally Breaks

Meanwhile...

Among the destroyed ruins...

Harris slowly opened his eyes.

Blood covered his face.

His body trembled.

The Second Book remained against his chest.

Then suddenly...

Something broke.

Not his body.

His emotions.

Everything he had been hiding.

Everything he had been carrying.

Everything exploded.

Harris screamed.

A scream louder than any battle.

A scream filled with pain.

Filled with loneliness.

Filled with heartbreak.

Filled with years of suffering.

"WHY?!"

The mountains shook.

The sky trembled.

Everyone froze.

Tears began falling from his eyes.

Then the words came.

Everything.

The hug.

The refusal.

The forgotten birthday.

The loneliness before Harlina.

The fear.

The nightmares.

The burden.

The responsibility.

The fear of losing everyone.

The fear of Omega.

The fear of failure.

Everything.

Nothing remained hidden.

Every word reached everyone.

Every tear reached everyone.

By the time he finished…

Everyone was crying.

Even the alternate Harris versions.

Even Koji.

Even Lunar.

Even Buddy.

Even the Creator.

Even the Third Voice.

And Harlina...

Could barely stand.

The Return of Rage

The monsters attacked again.

Wrong timing.

Very wrong timing.

Harris slowly stood up.

His eyes glowed red.

Not Void power.

Pure rage.

Pure emotion.

The monsters charged.

And disappeared.

The battle ended almost instantly.

The guardians fell.

The ruins became silent.

One Final Offer

Harris slowly walked toward the barrier.

Everyone stared at him.

Waiting.

Hoping.

Praying.

Then he spoke.

"I can't forget those moments."

Silence.

"So..."

"I'll stay."

Everyone's eyes widened.

Hope returned.

Then—

"On one condition."

The hope disappeared.

"You stop worrying about me."

"You stop caring about me."

The words hit harder than any attack.

Everyone immediately shouted—

"NO!"

Harris sighed.

"Then goodbye."

A Void Portal began forming.

Omega's Attack

Suddenly—

The sky split apart.

A gigantic attack erupted from a dark portal.

Omega Void Emperor.

Everyone recognized the energy.

The attack was aimed directly at the barrier.

At everyone.

At his friends.

Everyone screamed.

"HARRIS!!"

Without hesitation—

He jumped.

And stood in front of the attack.

BOOOOOOOOOM!!

The explosion swallowed him.

The world turned white.

His Most Painful Words

Inside the explosion...

Harris smiled sadly.

Then spoke.

"This..."

"...is why I left."

Everyone froze.

"If danger appears..."

"You call me."

"Otherwise..."

"I'm useless."

Silence.

The words shattered every heart.

Because he truly believed them.

Counterattack

Even while dying...

Even while standing inside Omega's attack...

Harris raised his hand.

A final attack formed.

Then—

BOOOOOOM!!

The energy shot back through Omega's portal.

Far away...

Omega Void Emperor was forced backward.

For the first time in a long time.

Omega looked surprised.

And angry.

Collapse

The attack ended.

The portal disappeared.

The barrier vanished.

And Harris fell.

The Second Book still held tightly against his chest.

His final words echoed softly.

"Sorry..."

Then—

A smile.

The same smile.

And darkness.

Hospital – Two Days Later

Two entire days passed.

Nobody left.

Nobody slept properly.

Nobody stopped worrying.

The six Harris versions remained.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 5.

Universe 6.

Universe 7.

All waiting.

All hoping.

All praying.

Harlina never released his hand.

Not once.

Then...

Night arrived.

And Harris finally woke up.

Silently.

Everyone was asleep.

Koji.

Lunar.

Reku.

Roku.

Lina.

Mika.

The six Harris versions.

And Harlina.

Still holding his hand.

Harris smiled sadly.

Then remembered everything.

The pain.

The mistakes.

The loneliness.

And the people who never stopped searching for him.

Slowly...

He stood up.

Carefully lifted Harlina.

Placed her on a bed.

Then did the same for Lina and Mika.

Covered everyone with blankets.

And sat on a chair.

Watching them.

The way they watched him.

For the first time...

He understood.

Morning

Morning arrived.

The girls woke first.

Then—

SCREAM!!

"HARRIS!"

Everyone jumped awake.

The sudden scream startled Harris.

And he immediately fell off the chair.

THUD!!

Silence.

Then—

Laughter.

Everyone laughed.

For the first time in days.

Real laughter.

Real happiness.

Everyone rushed toward him.

And hugged him.

Including all six alternate Harris versions.

Everyone cried.

Everyone apologized.

And finally...

Harris smiled.

A real smile.

The smile everyone missed.

"Okay."

One word.

Yet it healed everyone.

The Legendary Stomach

Suddenly—

GRRRRRRRRRR.

The room froze.

Everyone slowly looked down.

Harris's stomach.

Silence.

Then—

The entire room exploded with laughter.

Universe 5 and Universe 7 looked confused.

"What happened?"

Universe 2 pointed.

"You'll learn."

Then mountains of food arrived.

This time...

Triple the amount.

Universe 5 blinked.

Universe 7 blinked.

"Is a party coming?"

Universe 6 smiled.

"No."

The two newcomers looked confused.

Then looked at Harris.

Then looked at the food.

Then looked at Harris again.

And finally understood.

"...Oh."

The Final Scene

Harris looked at the food.

Then at everyone.

Then at the food again.

"Can I eat?"

Everyone smiled.

"No."

Harris froze.

"Why?"

"You know why."

He sighed dramatically.

"I hate all of you."

Nobody believed him.

Five seconds later—

Everyone was feeding him.

The room was filled with laughter.

Filled with life.

Filled with hope.

Then Harris suddenly remembered.

"The books."

Everyone immediately answered—

"NO."

The room exploded with laughter again.

Harris looked offended.

"Where are the slaps?"

That made everyone laugh even harder.

A beautiful morning.

A repaired bond.

The Second Book recovered.

Six alternate Harrises now standing beside him.

And a new journey waiting ahead.

Suddenly...

The First Book and Second Book floated into the air.

Ancient energy surrounded them.

New pages appeared.

A language nobody could understand.

Except one person.

Harris slowly smiled.

"The next journey..."

His eyes reflected the mysterious symbols.

"...has already begun."

TO BE CONTINUED IN CHAPTER 3 — THE THIRD BOOK 🌌📖🔥💜

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 3: THE BOY INSIDE THE VOID

PART 1 – THE RETURN OF THE LONELY BOY

The hospital room was filled with laughter.

For the first time in many days...

Everyone was smiling.

Koji.

Lunar.

Harlina.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 5.

Universe 6.

Universe 7.

All gathered around Harris.

The atmosphere felt warm.

Peaceful.

Alive.

After everything that happened...

After the loneliness.

After the Second Book.

After Omega's attack.

Everyone finally felt hope again.

Harris sat on the hospital bed.

Still covered in bandages.

Still injured.

Yet smiling.

His stomach growled again.

Everyone laughed.

Universe 5 looked confused.

Universe 7 looked even more confused.

Universe 2 simply pointed toward Harris.

"Get used to it."

Universe 6 nodded.

"That stomach is more dangerous than Omega."

The room exploded with laughter.

Even Harris laughed.

For a brief moment…

The war felt very far away.

Then—

The First Book suddenly floated into the air.

Everyone froze.

The Second Book followed.

Ancient energy filled the room.

Purple light spread everywhere.

The walls trembled.

The air itself felt heavier.

Everyone stepped backward.

The two books slowly opened.

Pages turned by themselves.

New symbols appeared.

Ancient Void Language.

Words nobody could understand.

Except one person.

Harris.

The moment he saw the symbols...

His eyes widened.

Then...

A smile appeared.

A genuine smile.

"The next journey..."

Everyone immediately looked at him.

Koji stood up.

"What does it say?"

Lunar moved closer.

"Is it the Third Book?"

Universe 1 crossed his arms.

"Did you find a clue?"

Universe 3 leaned forward.

Universe 5 and Universe 7 stared curiously.

Even Harlina moved beside him.

Everyone waited.

Harris continued reading.

His smile became wider.

Then suddenly—

The smile disappeared.

Instantly.

His entire body froze.

Everyone noticed.

"Harris?"

No reply.

The symbols continued glowing.

Something felt wrong.

Very wrong.

Inside his chest…

Something cracked.

Not a bone.

Not an injury.

Something deeper.

A forgotten wound.

A buried fear.

A memory.

His breathing suddenly became unstable.

The room fell silent.

"Harris?"

Harlina asked again.

Still no response.

His hands started shaking.

His eyes trembled.

Everyone stood up.

Fear appeared in their hearts.

Because they had seen this before.

The signs.

The silence.

The distant eyes.

The pain hidden behind a smile.

Suddenly—

A tear fell.

Everyone froze.

Then another.

And another.

Nobody understood.

The books had not hurt him.

The symbols had not attacked him.

Yet Harris was crying.

His breathing became heavier.

His hands gripped the blanket.

Then—

He cried.

Not quietly.

Not silently.

Not like before.

He cried loudly.

The sound echoed through the room.

Everyone froze.

Because they had never heard him cry like this.

Not even during battles.

Not even during near death.

Not even during the loneliness incident.

Harlina immediately grabbed his hand.

"HARRIS!"

He didn't answer.

The tears kept falling.

The books continued floating.

And Harris whispered—

"No..."

Everyone leaned closer.

"What happened?"

"No..."

His voice trembled.

Then finally—

"The loneliness..."

Silence.

Everyone froze.

"The past..."

Another tear fell.

"It's coming back..."

The room became completely silent.

The alternate Harrises looked at each other.

Immediately understanding.

Universe 6 lowered his head.

Universe 2 clenched his fists.

Universe 1's expression darkened.

Because they knew.

They had seen him break before.

And they feared it was happening again.

Suddenly—

Harris collapsed.

The books dropped.

The room erupted.

"HARRIS!!"

Everyone rushed toward him.

But before anyone reached him—

Darkness swallowed his vision.

Inside The Void

Silence.

Endless silence.

No stars.

No light.

No sound.

Only darkness.

Only the Void.

Harris slowly opened his eyes.

He looked around.

Confused.

Then he noticed something.

Someone.

Far away.

Sitting alone.

A small figure.

A familiar figure.

The same figure he saw before.

The Lonely Boy.

The Loneliness Version.

Sitting alone in the endless Void.

Looking toward the sky.

Smiling.

Not a happy smile.

A lonely smile.

A smile Harris knew too well.

Slowly…

He walked forward.

Step by step.

The figure never moved.

Never turned.

Never reacted.

Finally...

Harris stopped beside him.

For several minutes...

Neither spoke.

Both simply looked at the sky.

Then Harris smiled sadly.

And sat beside him.

Just like two old friends.

Or two broken souls.

"I'm sorry."

The Lonely Boy didn't move.

"I'm sorry for ignoring you."

Still no response.

"I thought I buried you."

Silence.

"I thought I overcame you."

The Lonely Boy finally smiled.

Then spoke softly.

"You don't need to apologize."

Harris looked surprised.

"You aren't angry?"

The Lonely Boy shook his head.

"No."

The answer surprised Harris.

After everything...

No anger.

No hatred.

No blame.

Only calmness.

Then Harris asked:

"Then what do you want?"

The Lonely Boy continued staring upward.

His smile remained.

Then he answered.

"The loneliness."

Silence.

Harris froze.

The answer hit harder than expected.

Not revenge.

Not hatred.

Not destruction.

Simply loneliness.

The thing that had stayed with him the longest.

The thing that existed before Harlina.

Before Koji.

Before Lunar.

Before everyone.

The first companion he ever had.

The Lonely Boy smiled.

"It's peaceful."

Harris lowered his head.

For a moment...

He couldn't answer.

Because part of him understood.

Part of him remembered.

The silence.

The emptiness.

The loneliness that never judged him.

Never left him.

Never disappointed him.

The two sat quietly.

Watching the endless sky above the Void.

Neither speaking.

Neither moving.

Meanwhile...

In reality...

The Harris lying on the hospital bed slowly opened his eyes.

Everyone rushed forward.

"HARRIS!"

"ARE YOU OKAY?!"

"WHAT HAPPENED?!"

"WHAT DID YOU SEE?!"

No answer.

Harris simply looked out the window.

Toward the distant sky.

And smiled.

A strange smile.

A dangerous smile.

The same smile the Lonely Boy had.

Universe 6 immediately stood up.

His face turned pale.

Universe 2 noticed it.

"What happened?"

Universe 6 stared at Harris.

Then whispered—

"The depression returned."

The room froze.

Universe 1 sensed it too.

His eyes widened.

"The energy changed."

Universe 3 looked shocked.

Universe 5 and Universe 7 immediately understood.

Dark energy.

Not Void energy.

Not battle energy.

Emotional energy.

The energy of despair.

The energy of someone falling back into darkness.

Everyone became afraid.

Very afraid.

Because they knew something.

A monster could be defeated.

An army could be defeated.

Even Omega Void Emperor could be defeated someday.

But if Harris started losing himself again...

Nobody knew how to stop it.

The Lonely Boy had returned.

And this time...

He wasn't hiding anymore.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 3: THE BOY INSIDE THE VOID

PART 2 – THE TRIAL OF TRUTH

The hospital room remained silent.

Nobody knew what to say.

Nobody knew what to do.

Harris sat on the bed.

Looking outside the window.

The same strange smile remained on his face.

Not happiness.

Not sadness.

Something in between.

Something frightening.

Universe 6 slowly stepped forward.

"Harris..."

No response.

Universe 2 tried.

"Buddy?"

Nothing.

Universe 3 frowned.

"Harris."

Still nothing.

The boy simply continued staring at the sky.

As if nobody else existed.

As if everyone around him had disappeared.

Then suddenly—

Harris stood up.

Everyone immediately became alert.

His movements were calm.

Too calm.

That frightened them more.

Without saying a word…

He raised his hand.

A Void Portal appeared.

BOOOOOOM!!

Purple energy filled the room.

Everyone froze.

"Harris?"

Still no response.

The portal expanded.

Larger.

Larger.

Larger.

Then—

WHOOSH!!

A powerful force erupted from the portal.

Everyone was pulled inside.

Koji.

Lunar.

Harlina.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 5.

Universe 6.

Universe 7.

All of them.

Seconds later...

They landed inside the training world.

The same hidden place Harris had discovered long ago.

The place filled with painful memories.

The place nobody truly understood.

Before anyone could react—

THUD!!

Massive chains erupted from the ground.

Void Chains.

Countless chains.

They wrapped around everyone.

Completely restraining them.

Nobody could move.

Everyone was shocked.

"HARRIS!!"

"WHAT ARE YOU DOING?!"

No answer.

The boy slowly turned around.

His eyes were calm.

Too calm.

Then he spoke.

"I want answers."

The atmosphere instantly changed.

Everyone froze.

"What answers?"

Koji asked.

Harris looked at them.

One by one.

Then raised his hand.

A sharp Void Blade appeared.

Everyone became terrified.

Not because of the blade.

Because they knew Harris.

And they knew where the blade would point.

At himself.

"I will ask questions."

Silence.

"If anyone lies..."

He pointed the blade at his own shoulder.

"I'll injure myself."

The room exploded.

"HARRIS NO!"

"STOP!"

"ARE YOU CRAZY?!"

The six alternate Harrises immediately struggled.

But the chains didn't move.

Harris continued.

"I can read your minds."

Everyone froze.

"So don't lie."

The silence became unbearable.

Then Harris looked toward Lina.

The first person.

Lina's face turned pale.

Lina's Questions

Harris walked toward her.

Stopped in front of her.

Then asked quietly.

"Why did you become friends with Harris after Harlina arrived?"

Lina blinked.

"What?"

"Before that..."

Harris continued.

"Why didn't you speak with him?"

The question hit harder than expected.

Everyone became silent.

Lina hesitated.

Then answered.

"He was quiet."

"I didn't notice him."

The blade moved.

SLASH!!

Blood erupted.

Everyone screamed.

"HARRIS!!"

The blade had pierced his right shoulder.

Blood immediately soaked his clothes.

Lina's eyes widened.

"No!"

Harris simply smiled.

"That was a lie."

The room shook.

Everyone started crying.

"HARRIS STOP THIS!"

But he ignored them.

"Tell me the truth."

Lina trembled.

Then spoke again.

"I was afraid to speak with him."

SLASH!!

The blade struck again.

The same wound.

Deeper.

Blood poured down his arm.

This time everyone screamed even louder.

Harlina was crying.

Koji was shouting.

The alternate Harrises were struggling desperately.

Yet nothing stopped him.

Harris calmly looked at Lina.

"Truth."

His voice remained gentle.

Which made everything worse.

Lina finally broke.

Tears fell from her eyes.

"Everyone told me..."

Her voice trembled.

"They said you were strange."

"They said you were mysterious."

"They said you never smiled."

"They said nobody understood you."

"So..."

"I stayed away."

The blade disappeared.

Harris smiled.

"Correct."

Everyone lowered their heads.

Because they knew she was telling the truth.

The Second Question

Harris looked directly into her eyes.

Then asked—

"Why are you speaking with Harris now?"

Silence.

"You have only two answers."

Everyone listened carefully.

"Friend."

"Or Shield."

The atmosphere became heavy.

Harris continued.

"Do you see him as your friend?"

"Or do you see him as the Void Walker who protects you?"

Nobody could breathe.

Lina immediately answered.

"Friend."

Harris smiled sadly.

"Why?"

She answered quickly.

"He helped me."

"We've been friends for years."

"We care about each other."

SLASH!!

Blood exploded from the same shoulder.

The wound became even worse.

Everyone screamed.

"HARRIS STOP!!"

But he only looked at Lina.

"Truth."

The word echoed.

Lina broke down completely.

She was crying uncontrollably now.

"STOP HURTING YOURSELF!"

"PLEASE!"

But Harris simply waited.

The real Harris inside the Void was listening too.

And every answer hurt him.

Because he genuinely wanted to know.

Finally...

Lina lowered her head.

Then whispered—

"Because he's strong."

The room froze.

"He protects everyone."

"He saves everyone."

"If you're his friend..."

"You feel safe."

Silence.

More tears fell.

"I know it's selfish."

"But that's the truth."

The blade vanished.

Harris smiled.

A sad smile.

"So..."

"You see him as a shield."

Lina couldn't answer.

Because she knew.

Part of it was true.

Mika

Harris slowly walked toward Mika.

Everyone's hearts sank.

Because they knew what was coming.

The same questions.

The same pain.

The same wounds.

Mika tried to answer honestly.

But even she hesitated.

And every hesitation led to another injury.

More blood.

More screams.

More tears.

Eventually...

Her truth became almost identical.

She cared.

But part of that care came from feeling protected.

Reku

Then came Reku.

The atmosphere grew heavier.

Reku's answers were more complicated.

But eventually he admitted something.

"I started paying more attention after seeing what Harris was willing to sacrifice."

Not before.

After.

That truth hurt.

Roku

Then Roku.

The final question struck hardest.

"Why are you still beside Harris?"

Roku lowered his head.

Then answered honestly.

"Because after he got those powers..."

"He looked lonely."

Everyone looked up.

Roku continued.

"He always smiled."

"But it never reached his eyes."

Silence.

"So I wanted him to be happy."

"For once."

The blade disappeared.

No injury.

No punishment.

Only silence.

Because for the first time...

Harris believed an answer.

The End of the First Trial

Blood covered his clothes.

His right shoulder was almost completely soaked red.

Everyone was crying.

Everyone was terrified.

Yet Harris remained calm.

Far too calm.

Then he slowly turned.

Toward Koji.

Toward Lunar.

Toward Harlina.

The people closest to him.

The people whose answers mattered most.

And for the first time...

Fear appeared in everyone's eyes.

Because they realized something.

The questions were no longer about friendship.

The next questions...

Would decide whether Harris still believed in the people he loved.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 3: THE BOY INSIDE THE VOID

PART 3 – THE HEART OF HARLINA

The training world had become silent.

Not the peaceful silence of a beautiful morning.

The painful silence before a storm.

Blood dripped from Harris's right shoulder.

The ground beneath him was stained red.

Yet he stood there.

Smiling.

The smile frightened everyone.

Because it wasn't the Harris they knew.

It was the smile of someone trying not to break.

The smile of someone desperately searching for answers.

Everyone remained chained.

Everyone remained helpless.

Everyone remained afraid.

Not of Harris.

Of what Harris might discover.

Or worse…

What he might believe.

Slowly...

Harris turned.

Toward Koji.

The man who raised him.

The man who saved him.

The man he trusted more than anyone during his childhood.

Koji's heart immediately sank.

Because he already knew.

These questions would hurt.

Koji's Questions

Harris stopped in front of him.

For several seconds...

Neither spoke.

Then Harris finally asked.

"Why did you take me from the hospital?"

The question surprised everyone.

Koji blinked.

Then answered honestly.

"The day you were born..."

"Something strange happened."

Everyone listened carefully.

"There was a strange energy."

"A strange symbol."

"And your parents..."

His voice became quieter.

"...were gone."

Silence.

Koji continued.

"I knew something wasn't normal."

"So I took responsibility."

"And because..."

A small smile appeared.

"You were the son of my best friend."

The Void Blade remained still.

No injury.

The answer was true.

Harris nodded.

Then asked the second question.

"Why do you care about me now?"

Koji immediately answered.

"Because you're my student."

The blade moved.

SLASH!!

Blood erupted again.

This time everyone screamed.

The wound reopened even deeper.

"HARRIS STOP!!"

But he ignored them.

His eyes remained fixed on Koji.

"Truth."

Koji lowered his head.

His fists trembled.

For the first time...

He couldn't meet Harris's eyes.

Then finally—

"Because you're the last hope."

Silence.

"The last hope for every universe."

"The last hope against Omega."

The words echoed across the training world.

Harris smiled.

Not happily.

Not sadly.

Just smiled.

Then walked away.

Koji's heart shattered.

Because he knew something.

That wasn't the complete truth.

He cared because Harris was family.

But Harris had asked for the reason he needed him now.

And that answer hurt.

Lunar's Questions

Next...

Harris stopped before Lunar.

Lunar looked directly into his eyes.

Unlike the others.

He didn't look away.

Because he knew Harris needed honesty.

No matter how painful.

Harris asked quietly.

"Why do you care about Harris?"

Lunar took a deep breath.

Then answered.

"The first time..."

"I saw the Void Walker."

Everyone listened.

"I thought he was incredible."

A small smile appeared.

"But after seeing him closely..."

The smile disappeared.

"I realized something."

"He wasn't incredible."

Everyone looked shocked.

Lunar continued.

"He was broken."

Silence.

"He kept helping people."

"He kept sacrificing himself."

"He kept smiling."

"But every time he smiled…"

"It looked lonely."

The entire group became silent.

"So I stayed."

"Because if his past was dark..."

"Then I wanted his future to be bright."

The blade disappeared.

No injury.

The answer was accepted.

For the first time...

A small crack appeared in Harris's emotional wall.

Harlina's Turn

Then—

Everything changed.

Harris turned.

Toward Harlina.

The atmosphere became heavier.

Even the wind stopped.

Even the alternate Harrises became nervous.

Because everyone knew.

These questions mattered most.

Not Koji.

Not Lunar.

Not anyone else.

Her.

Only her.

Harlina's hands trembled.

Not because she was afraid of him.

Because she was afraid of hurting him.

Again.

Harris slowly stopped in front of her.

Then asked:

"Why did you speak to Harris first?"

The question seemed simple.

Yet Harlina froze.

Her mind immediately remembered.

The classroom.

The silent boy sitting alone.

The boy nobody approached.

The boy who never approached anyone.

Tears appeared in her eyes.

She answered.

"Because you looked sad."

SLASH!!

The blade struck.

This time—

The left shoulder.

Everyone screamed.

Blood poured down instantly.

"HARRIS!"

"STOP!"

But he only looked at her.

"Truth."

Harlina started crying.

"I AM TELLING THE TRUTH!"

SLASH!!

Another strike.

Deeper.

Much deeper.

Blood covered the ground.

Even the alternate Harrises were horrified.

Universe 1 clenched his fists.

Universe 6 lowered his head.

Universe 7 looked sick.

Because Harris wasn't attacking others.

He was destroying himself.

For answers.

Finally...

Harlina broke.

And told the complete truth.

"The first day..."

"Everyone wanted to talk to me."

Everyone listened carefully.

"But there was one person who didn't."

Her eyes met Harris's.

"You."

Silence.

"You ignored everyone."

"You sat alone."

"You never tried to get attention."

"You never cared."

"And that made me curious."

A tear rolled down her cheek.

"I wanted to know who you were."

The blade disappeared.

No injury.

Truth.

The Question That Broke Everyone

Then Harris asked:

"Why did you love him?"

The entire world felt frozen.

Everyone held their breath.

Harlina immediately answered.

"I liked your silent personality."

SLASH!!

The blade moved instantly.

The entire room exploded.

"HARRIS!!"

Blood erupted from both shoulders now.

Even the alternate Harrises were stunned.

Because they never expected that answer to be rejected.

Harlina herself looked shocked.

Then she understood.

He wasn't asking for a romantic answer.

He was asking for the deepest truth.

The truth beneath the truth.

Harris looked at her.

Still waiting.

Still bleeding.

Still smiling.

The sight broke everyone's hearts.

Finally...

Harlina began crying uncontrollably.

Then spoke.

"The monster attack."

Silence.

Everyone remembered.

The day everything changed.

"The day everyone ran."

"The day everyone was afraid."

"The day you stood up."

Her voice trembled.

"You protected people."

"You protected strangers."

"You protected your friends."

"You protected me."

Tears continued falling.

"Even when nobody asked you to."

The entire training world was silent.

"I fell in love with your heart."

Not your strength.

Not your powers.

Not the Void Walker.

The boy who cared more about others than himself.

The blade disappeared.

Accepted.

The Final Question

Harris slowly looked at her.

His eyes were softer now.

But only slightly.

Then he asked:

"Why do you care about him now?"

Everyone froze.

Because this was it.

The most important question.

The final answer.

Harlina looked directly into his eyes.

No hesitation.

No fear.

No lies.

Then smiled through her tears.

And answered:

"Because he's my boyfriend."

Silence.

No blade.

No injury.

No punishment.

Only silence.

Then—

Harris smiled.

A small smile.

A genuine smile.

For the first time since the trial began.

And then—

His body collapsed.

THUD!!

Everyone screamed.

"HARRIS!!"

The chains suddenly trembled.

Blood surrounded him.

His breathing became weak.

Very weak.

His body had finally reached its limit.

And as darkness swallowed him—

The last thing he heard...

Was Harlina crying his name.

And the last thing everyone saw...

Was the smile on his face.

A smile that seemed to say:

"Thank you for being honest."

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 3: THE BOY INSIDE THE VOID

PART 4 – ACCEPTING THE BOY IN THE VOID

"HARRIS!!"

The scream echoed throughout the training world.

Harlina's voice.

Filled with fear.

Filled with pain.

Filled with desperation.

The moment Harris collapsed...

Everyone completely forgot about the chains.

Forgot about the questions.

Forgot about themselves.

Only one thing mattered.

Saving him.

Blood continued spreading beneath Harris.

His shoulders were destroyed.

His breathing was weak.

His body was trembling.

Even unconscious...

He looked exhausted.

As if he had been carrying the weight of countless worlds.

Because he had.

The six alternate Harrises immediately acted.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 5.

Universe 6.

Universe 7.

All released their full power.

BOOOOOOOOM!!

The training world shook violently.

The chains trembled.

Cracks appeared.

Again.

Again.

Again.

The chains were powerful.

But their determination was stronger.

"HARRIS IS DYING!"

Universe 6 roared.

"BREAK THEM!"

The six Harrises unleashed everything.

The sky itself cracked.

Finally—

CRAAAAAACK!!

The chains shattered.

Everyone immediately rushed toward Harris.

Harlina reached him first.

She dropped to her knees.

Lifted his head.

Her tears fell onto his face.

"Harris..."

"Please..."

"Wake up..."

No response.

Only weak breathing.

Koji quickly examined his injuries.

His face turned pale.

"He's lost too much blood."

Everyone froze.

Lunar clenched his fists.

The six alternate Harrises looked devastated.

Because they understood something.

This wasn't caused by Omega.

This wasn't caused by monsters.

This wasn't caused by fate.

This was caused by loneliness.

The most dangerous enemy Harris had ever faced.

Inside The Void

Darkness.

Silence.

Endless silence.

Harris slowly opened his eyes.

He was back.

The Void.

The place where nobody existed.

Except one person.

The Lonely Boy.

Still sitting quietly.

Still watching the endless sky.

Still smiling.

Harris slowly walked toward him.

This time...

He wasn't afraid.

He wasn't confused.

He wasn't running.

For the first time...

He sat beside him willingly.

The Lonely Boy smiled.

"You came back."

Harris nodded.

"Yeah."

Several minutes passed.

Neither spoke.

The sky above the Void slowly shimmered.

Then Harris finally asked—

"Why do you always stay here?"

The Lonely Boy answered immediately.

"Because nobody can hurt me here."

Silence.

The answer hit harder than any attack.

No enemies.

No betrayals.

No expectations.

No disappointment.

Only loneliness.

Only silence.

Only safety.

The Lonely Boy continued.

"If I stay alone..."

"I won't lose anyone."

Harris lowered his head.

Because he understood.

Every word.

Every fear.

Every wound.

Because those words belonged to him.

The Lonely Boy turned toward Harris.

For the first time.

And asked:

"Did the answers help?"

Silence.

Harris thought about Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

Koji.

Lunar.

Harlina.

Every answer.

Every truth.

Every tear.

Then he smiled.

"A little."

The Lonely Boy laughed softly.

"A little?"

Harris nodded.

"They were honest."

The Lonely Boy looked away.

Toward the endless sky.

Then asked:

"Do you still want loneliness?"

Silence.

A long silence.

Harris remembered everything.

The forgotten birthday.

The hug rejection.

The nightmares.

The fear.

The pain.

The loneliness.

Then he remembered something else.

Harlina crying.

Koji's guilt.

Lunar's concern.

His friends' smiles.

The alternate Harrises risking everything for him.

Their tears.

Their fear.

Their love.

Harris smiled.

A real smile.

Then answered—

"Yes."

The Lonely Boy froze.

Then slowly smiled.

Because he already knew.

Harris continued.

"I still want loneliness."

The Lonely Boy lowered his head.

Not surprised.

Not disappointed.

Only calm.

Then Harris finished his sentence.

"But not alone."

Silence.

The Lonely Boy looked at him.

Completely shocked.

Harris laughed softly.

"You are part of me."

The Lonely Boy froze.

"You always will be."

More silence.

"You protected me."

"When nobody was there."

The Lonely Boy's eyes widened.

"You stayed with me."

"When everyone ignored me."

Tears appeared.

"You carried my pain."

"When I couldn't."

The Lonely Boy started crying.

For the first time.

Not from sadness.

From relief.

Harris smiled.

Then stretched out his hand.

"You don't need to disappear."

Silence.

"You don't need to leave."

The Lonely Boy stared at him.

Unable to speak.

Then Harris said the words that changed everything.

"You are my past."

"You are my loneliness."

"You are my pain."

"You are Harris too."

The Void itself became silent.

The Lonely Boy finally cried.

Years.

Years of pain.

Years of loneliness.

Years of suffering.

Finally breaking.

Then he smiled.

The same smile Harris used to have.

And asked—

"Then what now?"

Harris stood up.

And extended his hand again.

"Now..."

A bright light appeared around him.

"We save everyone together."

The Lonely Boy stared at the hand.

Then smiled.

A genuine smile.

The first genuine smile of his existence.

And grabbed it.

BOOOOOOOOOOOM!!

The entire Void exploded with light.

The darkness vanished.

The loneliness vanished.

Not destroyed.

Not erased.

Accepted.

Understood.

Loved.

The Lonely Boy slowly dissolved into light.

Returning to where he belonged.

Inside Harris.

Not as an enemy.

Not as a burden.

As part of him.

As family.

As himself.

The final piece.

The broken child.

The lonely child.

The forgotten child.

Finally came home.

As Harris disappeared from the Void...

The Lonely Boy's final words echoed behind him.

"Thank you..."

And for the first time in his life...

The Void felt warm.

Reality

Far away...

Inside the hospital room.

A finger moved.

Then another.

Harlina immediately noticed.

Her eyes widened.

"Harris…?"

Everyone looked up.

The six alternate Harrises froze.

Koji stopped breathing.

Lunar stood up instantly.

Slowly…

Very slowly…

Harris opened his eyes.

And the first thing he saw...

Was everyone crying.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 3: THE BOY INSIDE THE VOID

PART 5 – THE DAY THE PAST FINALLY Let Go

A finger moved.

Then another.

Slowly...

Very slowly...

Harris opened his eyes.

The first thing he saw...

Tears.

Not one person.

Not two.

Everyone.

Koji.

Lunar.

Harlina.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 5.

Universe 6.

Universe 7.

All of them.

Crying.

For him.

The room was completely silent.

Nobody moved.

Nobody spoke.

Nobody even breathed properly.

Because for a moment…

They thought they had lost him.

Again.

Harris stared at them.

Then blinked.

Once.

Twice.

Three times.

Trying to understand what he was seeing.

Then—

A small smile appeared.

And suddenly…

He started laughing.

Not loudly.

Not crazily.

Just a genuine laugh.

The kind of laugh everyone had missed.

The room froze.

Then Harris spoke.

"Why do all of you look like someone died?"

Silence.

Nobody answered.

Because everyone was too busy trying not to cry again.

Universe 2 suddenly covered his face.

Universe 5 looked away.

Universe 7 wiped his eyes.

Even Universe 1 lowered his head.

The strongest versions of Harris…

Could not hide their emotions.

Because they had heard everything.

Every wound.

Every lonely memory.

Every painful truth.

Every scar hidden behind Harris's smile.

The room became silent again.

Then something unexpected happened.

Everyone slowly stepped backward.

One step.

Two steps.

Three steps.

Harris looked confused.

Very confused.

"Why are you moving away?"

Nobody answered.

Lina lowered her head.

Mika looked guilty.

Reku and Roku couldn't even meet his eyes.

Koji clenched his fists.

Lunar looked devastated.

Even Harlina looked broken.

Because after hearing the answers...

Everyone felt guilty.

Everyone believed they had failed him.

Failed the boy who always protected them.

Failed the boy who never asked for anything.

Failed the boy who only wanted people beside him.

Then Harris suddenly spoke.

"So..."

Everyone looked up.

"You are rejecting me again?"

Silence.

The sentence hit harder than any attack.

Like a knife through every heart.

Harlina froze.

Koji froze.

Lunar froze.

The six alternate Harrises froze.

Because they understood immediately.

That wasn't anger.

That wasn't blame.

That was fear.

The fear of being left alone again.

Harris looked away.

Then smiled sadly.

"I thought..."

His voice became quieter.

"When I woke up..."

Everyone listened.

"I thought someone would hug me."

Silence.

"I was waiting."

His smile became smaller.

"But I guess I was wrong."

The room shattered.

Not physically.

Emotionally.

Harlina burst into tears.

Lina started crying again.

Mika covered her mouth.

Koji turned away.

Lunar wiped his eyes.

The six alternate Harrises looked completely broken.

Then—

WHOOSH!!

Everyone rushed toward him.

At the same time.

"HARRIS!!"

The entire hospital room exploded into chaos.

Hugs.

Tears.

Apologies.

Laughter.

Everything at once.

Poor Harris disappeared beneath a mountain of people.

"I CAN'T BREATHE!"

Nobody listened.

Everyone hugged him tighter.

Even Universe 1.

Which shocked everyone.

"WAIT!"

Universe 2 pointed.

"UNIVERSE 1 IS HUGGING SOMEONE!"

The room exploded with laughter.

Universe 1 immediately pushed him.

"SHUT UP."

Even Harris laughed.

A real laugh.

The old laugh.

The one everyone missed.

Finally...

After several minutes...

The group calmed down.

Harris looked around.

At everyone.

Then smiled warmly.

"You know..."

Everyone listened.

"I understand now."

Silence.

"The answers hurt."

Everyone lowered their heads.

"But..."

Harris continued.

"They were real."

Nobody spoke.

Then Harris looked toward Lina.

"Mika."

"Reku."

"Roku."

"You all weren't perfect."

They lowered their heads even more.

"But neither was I."

Everyone looked up.

Harris smiled.

"If I acted like a normal boy..."

"Maybe some things would've been different."

Silence.

"But that's the past."

The room became quiet.

Then Harris pointed at himself.

"I'm over it."

Everyone froze.

Then he laughed.

"The past Harris finally stopped bullying me."

The alternate Harrises immediately understood.

The Lonely Boy.

The part of Harris he had finally accepted.

Universe 6 smiled.

Universe 2 smiled.

Universe 3 smiled.

Because they knew.

The battle had ended.

Not against Omega.

Not against monsters.

Against himself.

The hardest battle of all.

Then Harris stood up.

And stretched.

Immediately regretting it.

"AAAAAAAHHHHHH!!"

Pain shot through both shoulders.

Everyone panicked.

Harlina immediately grabbed him.

"IDIOT!"

SLAP!!

A familiar slap landed.

The room froze.

Then everyone started laughing.

Because things finally felt normal again.

Harris rubbed his cheek.

"That one was unnecessary."

Harlina crossed her arms.

"No."

"That was overdue."

The room laughed again.

Then suddenly—

Harlina hugged him.

Very tightly.

Much tighter than before.

Everyone noticed her face turning red.

Harris noticed too.

Which was a terrible mistake.

Because he smiled.

And said:

"Everyone is watching."

Silence.

One second.

Two seconds.

Three seconds.

SLAP!!

The second slap arrived.

The room exploded.

Everyone laughed so hard that even the hospital walls seemed to shake.

Harlina's face turned completely red.

Meanwhile...

For the first time in a very long time...

Harris felt something.

Not fear.

Not loneliness.

Not pain.

Peace.

The kind of peace he had been searching for since childhood.

And although Omega still existed...

And although the Third Book remained hidden...

And although war was approaching...

For one small moment...

Harris finally felt free.

Because the lonely boy inside him...

Was no longer alone.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 3: THE BOY INSIDE THE VOID

PART 6 – THE PEACE BEFORE THE FINAL JOURNEY

The laughter slowly faded.

The tears stopped.

The fear disappeared.

For the first time in a long time...

The hospital room felt peaceful.

Not because Omega was defeated.

Not because the war had ended.

Not because danger was gone.

But because Harris was smiling again.

The real smile.

The smile everyone had fought so hard to protect.

Harlina remained beside him.

Still refusing to move away.

Even after the second slap incident.

Everyone kept teasing her.

Which only made her face redder.

Meanwhile…

Harris looked happier than he had in weeks.

Then suddenly—

GRRRRRRRRRRRRRR...

A familiar sound echoed through the room.

Silence.

Everyone slowly turned.

Toward Harris.

His stomach had spoken.

Again.

The room exploded with laughter.

Universe 5 looked shocked.

Universe 7 looked terrified.

Universe 2 simply sighed.

"Here we go again."

Universe 6 nodded.

"The real final boss has awakened."

Harris immediately pointed at them.

"Traitors."

Everyone laughed even harder.

Then Harris crossed his arms dramatically.

"I require food."

The room froze.

Koji looked suspicious.

Lunar looked suspicious.

The alternate Harrises looked suspicious.

Harlina looked very suspicious.

Because everyone knew.

Whenever Harris asked for food...

Something dangerous followed.

Harris noticed.

"Why are all of you looking at me like that?"

Universe 1 replied immediately.

"Experience."

The room laughed again.

Then Harlina stood up.

"I'll bring food."

Harris smiled proudly.

"My hero."

SLAP.

A light slap landed instantly.

Everyone laughed.

A few minutes later...

Food arrived.

A lot of food.

Then more food arrived.

Then even more food arrived.

Universe 5 stared.

Universe 7 stared.

Both looked completely confused.

The table was overflowing.

"Is there a festival?"

Universe 7 asked.

Universe 2 laughed.

"No."

Universe 5 looked at the food.

Then at Harris.

Then at the food.

Then at Harris again.

Realization appeared.

"Oh no."

Universe 6 nodded.

"Exactly."

Everyone prepared themselves.

The feeding ceremony was about to begin.

Then something unexpected happened.

Nobody fed Harris.

Everyone simply sat down.

Watching.

Waiting.

Harris blinked.

Once.

Twice.

Three times.

Then looked at the food.

Then looked at everyone.

Then back at the food.

Confusion.

Pure confusion.

"What is this?"

Everyone replied together.

"Food."

"I know it's food."

"Then eat."

Silence.

Harris looked offended.

Deeply offended.

Then quietly replied:

"I can't."

Everyone froze.

"You can't?"

"No."

"Why?"

Harris looked away dramatically.

Then pointed toward the food.

Then toward everyone.

Then toward himself.

Everyone immediately understood.

The room exploded.

Universe 5 nearly fell off his chair laughing.

Universe 7 couldn't breathe.

Even Universe 1 looked like he was trying not to laugh.

"You want us to feed you?"

Harris nodded proudly.

"Correct."

The room became chaos again.

And for the next hour...

Everyone fed Harris.

Koji.

Lunar.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 5.

Universe 6.

Universe 7.

And finally...

Harlina.

The entire room was laughing.

The new versions were completely shocked.

Universe 5 whispered:

"How does the strongest Harris become like this?"

Universe 2 smiled.

"That's why he's the strongest."

Universe 6 nodded.

"He never forgot how to be human."

Harris heard that.

His smile softened.

For just a moment.

Then—

"The books."

Everyone froze.

Instantly.

The atmosphere changed.

The First Book floated forward.

The Second Book followed.

Ancient energy filled the room again.

Purple symbols appeared.

Void Language.

Unknown words.

Ancient secrets.

Everyone watched.

The pages slowly turned.

Then stopped.

A new section appeared.

One nobody had seen before.

The symbols glowed brighter.

And brighter.

And brighter.

The room trembled.

The air became heavy.

Everyone stepped back.

Then suddenly—

The books opened completely.

BOOOOOOOOOOM!!

A massive pulse of Void energy erupted.

The windows shook.

The hospital lights flickered.

The alternate Harrises immediately became alert.

Everyone prepared themselves.

But no attack came.

Instead...

New words appeared.

Words only Harris could understand.

He slowly began reading.

The room became silent.

Everyone waited.

Several minutes passed.

Then Harris smiled.

A confident smile.

The same smile he had before every impossible mission.

The smile that meant one thing.

Adventure.

Danger.

Hope.

Harlina immediately noticed.

And sighed.

"That smile again."

Koji nodded.

"We're definitely going somewhere dangerous."

Lunar agreed.

"Without question."

The six alternate Harrises laughed.

Because they already knew.

Harris finally closed the books.

Then stood up.

Slowly.

Carefully.

Because everyone was watching him now.

And because Harlina looked ready to slap him if he moved too fast.

He smiled.

Then looked at everyone.

Every friend.

Every ally.

Every version of himself.

The people who pulled him back from darkness.

The people who refused to leave him alone.

His family.

Then Harris spoke.

"The next journey..."

Everyone focused immediately.

"The journey for the Third Book..."

The room became silent.

"...has officially begun."

A chill ran through everyone.

Because they knew.

The closer they came to the Third Book...

The closer they came to Omega Void Emperor.

The closer they came to the final war.

Outside the hospital...

Far beyond their world...

Far beyond countless universes...

Omega Void Emperor slowly opened his eyes.

A cold smile appeared.

"So..."

"The lonely boy survived."

Darkness spread around his throne.

Entire universes trembled.

Then Omega laughed.

A terrifying laugh.

"Good."

His crimson eyes glowed.

"Because I want Harris at his strongest."

Silence.

Then he stood.

And the multiverse shook.

"The Third Book..."

"...will become his greatest nightmare."

Far away...

Harris suddenly felt a chill.

As if someone was watching him.

As if fate itself was moving.

He looked toward the sky.

Then smiled.

Not with fear.

Not with hesitation.

But with determination.

And for the first time…

The Lonely Boy inside him smiled too.

Together.

One heart.

One soul.

One Void Walker.

Ready for the next journey.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 3: THE BOY INSIDE THE VOID

PART 8 – Home, Nightmares, and the Promise

Several days passed after Harris woke up.

His injuries slowly healed.

The hospital room that had become everyone's temporary home was finally empty.

The doctors allowed Harris to leave.

Everyone immediately celebrated.

Especially Harris.

Because he was tired of hospital beds.

"Twelve days."

He pointed dramatically.

"Twelve days of imprisonment."

Koji sighed.

"It was a hospital."

"Same thing."

Lunar laughed.

The six alternate Harrises laughed too.

Even Universe 1 couldn't stop a small smile.

Meanwhile...

Harlina crossed her arms.

"You nearly died."

Harris immediately looked away.

"Minor detail."

SLAP.

Everyone nodded.

"Deserved."

The group laughed.

For the first time in a long time...

Everything felt normal.

Soon...

The entire group walked through the streets of Ravnym.

People waved.

Children smiled.

Shopkeepers greeted them.

The peaceful town that Harris protected every day was alive.

Harris quietly watched everything.

The laughter.

The families.

The children.

The ordinary life.

A small smile appeared.

This...

Was why he kept fighting.

Not for power.

Not for glory.

Not because he was the Void Walker.

Because he wanted moments like this to continue forever.

Eventually...

They arrived at Harris's house.

Everyone entered together.

The house instantly became noisy.

Universe 5 explored everything.

Universe 7 asked questions every ten seconds.

Universe 2 and Universe 6 were laughing.

Koji and Lunar were talking.

Lina, Mika, Reku and Roku were preparing food.

For the first time...

The house felt alive.

Like a family gathering.

Harris stood near the doorway.

Watching.

Listening.

Smiling.

Then suddenly...

Harlina grabbed his hand.

He blinked.

"What?"

She smiled.

"Nothing."

And continued holding it.

Harris's face immediately turned red.

The six alternate Harrises instantly noticed.

Universe 2 pointed.

"LOOK."

Universe 5 pointed too.

"THE LEGENDARY VOID WALKER IS BLUSHING."

The entire house exploded.

Harris immediately hid behind Harlina.

Which somehow made everything worse.

Everyone laughed for several minutes.

That night...

The group finally returned home.

Koji.

Lunar.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 5.

Universe 6.

Universe 7.

Everyone left.

Only Harris and Harlina remained.

Silence.

Peaceful silence.

The moonlight entered through the window.

The same house.

The same room.

The same stars outside.

Yet everything felt different.

Because Harris no longer carried everything alone.

Harlina sat beside him.

Then quietly rested her head on his shoulder.

Neither spoke.

Words weren't necessary.

After several minutes...

Harris slowly smiled.

"Thank you."

Harlina smiled.

"For what this time?"

Harris looked at her.

"For staying."

The answer froze her.

Because she knew exactly what he meant.

Not tonight.

Not this week.

Not this year.

For eleven years.

She gently hugged him.

And Harris hugged her back.

Soon...

Both fell asleep together.

The room became silent.

The stars shined outside.

Everything looked peaceful.

But then—

Darkness.

A familiar darkness.

Harris's dream returned.

The nightmare.

The place he hated most.

The endless Void.

The ruined universes.

The destroyed stars.

The silence.

And standing at the center...

Omega Void Emperor.

His crimson eyes opened.

A terrifying smile appeared.

"So..."

"The lonely boy is smiling again."

The Void shook.

Harris immediately stepped forward.

This time...

He didn't retreat.

He didn't fear.

He didn't lower his head.

Omega laughed.

"You overcame your past."

"Impressive."

Harris stared silently.

Omega's smile widened.

"But tell me..."

Suddenly...

Countless images appeared.

Destroyed universes.

Burning worlds.

Dead versions of Harris.

Friends screaming.

Harlina crying.

Koji falling.

Lunar covered in blood.

The six alternate Harrises disappearing.

The nightmare intensified.

Omega pointed toward the visions.

"You saved yourself."

"But can you save them?"

Silence.

For a moment...

The old fear returned.

The same fear.

The fear that caused Harris to leave everyone.

The fear that made him believe loneliness was safer.

Omega noticed.

And laughed.

"You see?"

"No matter how much they love you…"

"You will still fail."

The nightmare world trembled.

Omega stepped closer.

"Watch carefully."

The visions became clearer.

Everyone dying.

Everyone disappearing.

Everyone lost.

Harris clenched his fists.

His body shook.

His breathing became unstable.

Omega smiled.

"There it is."

"The fear."

"The weakness."

"The lonely boy."

Suddenly—

A voice appeared.

Soft.

Warm.

Familiar.

"Harris."

Omega froze.

Harris froze.

The darkness cracked.

The nightmare shattered.

The voice appeared again.

"Harris."

Then another.

"Harris."

Another.

"Harris."

And another.

"Harris."

Koji.

Lunar.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 5.

Universe 6.

Universe 7.

And finally...

Harlina.

The darkness exploded.

CRACK!!

Omega's expression changed.

For the first time...

He looked annoyed.

The nightmare collapsed.

And Harris woke up.

"GHHH!"

His breathing was heavy.

His body covered in sweat.

The fear remained.

The images remained.

The nightmare remained.

For a moment...

He forgot where he was.

Then—

A warm hand touched his face.

"Harris."

He turned.

Harlina.

Half asleep.

Still worried.

Still beside him.

She immediately hugged him.

Tightly.

Very tightly.

As if protecting him from the nightmare itself.

"What happened?"

Harris remained silent.

The nightmare still echoed in his mind.

Omega's words.

The visions.

The fear.

Everything.

But then...

He remembered his promise.

The promise he made in the hospital.

"When the nightmares come back..."

"Wake me up."

Harris closed his eyes.

Then quietly answered.

"I saw Omega again."

Harlina froze.

Then hugged him tighter.

This time...

He didn't hide it.

He didn't lie.

He didn't carry it alone.

And for the first time...

He told someone about the nightmare.

Harlina gently placed her forehead against his.

Then smiled.

"Good."

Harris blinked.

"Good?"

She nodded.

"Because you finally told me."

Silence.

Then she kissed his forehead.

And whispered:

"You're not fighting him alone."

The fear inside Harris slowly disappeared.

Not completely.

But enough.

Enough to breathe again.

Enough to smile again.

He hugged her back.

And for the rest of the night...

Neither let go.

The nightmare remained.

Omega remained.

The Third Book remained.

The war remained.

But so did something stronger.

Hope.

And beneath the moonlight…

The Void Walker and the Void Queen fell asleep again.

Together.

Ready for the journey that awaited them.

Yes Buddy. After Part 8, the perfect final scene before Chapter 4 is the Morning Practice Session, showing that Harris has overcome his past and is now preparing everyone for the Third Book journey.

VOID WALKER – SEASON 8

CHAPTER 3 – PART 9

The Morning of Preparation

Morning arrived.

Sunlight slowly entered the room.

Birds could be heard outside.

For once...

No nightmare woke Harris.

No fear.

No loneliness.

No panic.

Only peace.

Harris slowly opened his eyes.

The first thing he saw was Harlina sleeping beside him.

Her hand was still holding his shirt.

As if she was afraid he would disappear again.

Harris smiled.

Very carefully...

He moved a few strands of hair away from her face.

Then whispered:

"Good morning, sleepy queen."

No response.

Still asleep.

Harris laughed.

A few minutes later...

He gently woke her.

She opened one eye.

Then immediately closed it again.

"I am sleeping."

Harris blinked.

"You literally answered me."

"I answered in my dream."

The room became silent.

Then both started laughing.

Soon...

They prepared breakfast together.

Just like a normal couple.

No Void.

No battles.

No destiny.

Just two people enjoying a peaceful morning.

A little later...

A loud knock echoed through the house.

BANG!

BANG!

BANG!

"HARRIS!!"

"OPEN THE DOOR!!"

The voice belonged to Universe 2.

Harris sighed.

"The peace lasted exactly thirty minutes."

Harlina laughed.

After opening the door...

Everyone was already waiting.

Koji.

Lunar.

Lina.

Mika.

Reku.

Roku.

Universe 1.

Universe 2.

Universe 3.

Universe 5.

Universe 6.

Universe 7.

Everyone.

Universe 5 immediately pointed.

"You look happy."

Universe 7 nodded.

"Suspiciously happy."

Harris immediately shut the door.

Everyone laughed.

A few minutes later...

Everyone gathered outside.

Harris stood in front of them.

This time...

Not as the lonely boy.

Not as the depressed boy.

Not even as the Void Walker.

But as their leader.

Their friend.

Their family.

Harris looked at everyone.

Then smiled.

"The Third Book won't wait for us."

Everyone became serious.

"The enemies are getting stronger."

"The journey is getting harder."

"The mistakes we make from now on could cost lives."

Silence.

Then Harris smiled again.

"So let's become stronger together."

Everyone nodded.

A Void Portal slowly opened.

The familiar training ground appeared.

The place where Harris trained alone.

The place that once represented loneliness.

Now...

It would become a place of unity.

Everyone entered.

The wind moved across the massive field.

Harris stood at the center.

The six alternate Harrises stood beside him.

Friends stood behind him.

Family stood behind him.

No one was left out.

Then Harris raised his hand.

Purple energy appeared.

Not for battle.

For teaching.

"For the next few weeks..."

"We train."

Everyone smiled.

Universe 2 cracked his knuckles.

Universe 6 activated his Void Aura.

Universe 5 looked excited.

Universe 7 looked terrified.

Lunar laughed.

Koji smiled proudly.

Harlina stood beside Harris.

Then Harris pointed toward the field.

"Rule One."

Everyone listened.

"If anyone gets injured…"

The entire group interrupted.

"HARLINA DECIDES."

Silence.

Harris froze.

Everyone laughed.

Even Harlina.

Then she smiled.

"Correct."

The practice session officially began.

The camera slowly moved upward.

Showing the entire group training together.

Laughing.

Growing stronger.

Preparing for the Third Book.

Preparing for Omega.

Preparing for the final war.

And for the first time...

Harris wasn't training alone.

END OF CHAPTER 3 🌌 💜

Next: Chapter 4 – The Journey to the Third Book 🔥 📖 🌌